King Constantine II: I Shall Return

Greek Regime Organizes Demonstration for Republic

From News Wires

King Constantine II, in a Rome news conference 30 hours after he was deposed by the Athens military government, said Saturday night he was confident that he would return to Greece.

"At this moment of great trial and crisis, I wish to assure the Greek people," the king said in a statement in English, "that I, king of the Hellenes, have not only the hope but the unshakable conviction that I shall return to my beloved country as guarantor of the dignity and of the constitutional liberty of the Greek people, which alone give true meaning to the very concept of democracy."

The Greek regime organized a demonstration Saturday for its newly-declared presidential republic, and thousands of Athenians poured into the streets.

Constantine pledged his readiness to "fight with all my strength as a soldier, certain in the knowledge that I have at my side the people of Greece and the armed forces," to restore his nation's freedom.

He called his dethronement "an illegal act by an illegal government."

Sympathizers Arrested

Reports swept through Athens that many royalist sympathizers had been arrested and that there was discontent in the military. Reliable sources said those arrested included industrialist Christopher Stratos, a close friend of exiled former Premier Constantine Caramanlis.

The government of George Papadopoulos, who declared himself temporary president, has accused Caramanlis and King Constantine of involvement in the navy's abortive coup plot in May. Papadopoulos accused the king on Friday of "monstrous acts."

In the pro-government demonstration leaflets scattered on the streets said: "President Papadopoulos, the workers are with you."

About 10,000 persons, most of them workers, carried banners and passed out leaflets. They milled around downtown Omonia Square shouting "Zito i dimokratia," or "Long live the republic."

The king held the conference on his 33rd birthday in the garden of the Roman villa where he has been living most of the 5½ years since he chose to go into exile.

In his written statement, which was read to newsmen, the king refrained from mentioning the provisional president of the Greek military regime or any other of its leaders by name.

Democracy Right Questioned

"The real problem lies not in whether Greece should have a democracy with or without a king, but whether she should have a democracy at all," King Constantine said, "and whether the people of Greece have the right to be master of their fate and to enjoy its freedom."

The king expressed certainty no Greek would be deceived by the accusations leveled at him by the Athens government, nor by its promise for the future.

Constantine recalled "the tragic events of the current year, the arrests, the imprisonments, the tortures, the revolt of the students and finally the decision of the officers of the navy to make a move to abolish tyranny."

The king said his removal from the throne had been carefully prepared for a long time, and that he had to this purpose been vilified by the Athens government.

The king emphatically repeated earlier denials he was in no way connected with the recent rebellion of some Greek naval officers.

He said the responsibility for what had happened "rests on the shoulders of those who for six years have executed and exhausted every maneuver to maintain by force an irregular situation without giving any sign of their intention even in the remote future, to restore legality."

New York Times Report From Sources Close to Case

Dean Tells Dash of Frequent Nixon Meetings

By Seymour Hersh

©The New York Times

Washington — John Dean has told the chief counsel of the Senate Watergate Committee he met alone and in small groups with President Nixon more than 40 times between late January and early April of this year, sources close to the case said Saturday.

Dean, the former White House counsel, said this, according to the sources, during a more than four-hour private conference with Samuel Dash, the committee's chief counsel.

In that conference Dean said he could supply firsthand testimony about those meetings he believed would show Nixon had a "substantial knowledge" of what high White House officials were doing about the Watergate investigation, one closely involved source said.

Dean also told Dash, this source said, the President showed a "great interest" in making sure that "things were handled right — taken care of."

There were these other developments Saturday in the Watergate case.

—Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., challenged Nixon to tell the nation "the whole truth about Watergate and its allied abuses." He said Nixon had not given a satisfactory accounting of his role in the affair.

—The Senate Watergate Committee, which will resume public hearings Tuesday after an 11-day recess, is expected to meet privately beforehand in an effort to reach agreement on its schedule of witnesses.

The White House asked for comment early Saturday afternoon, at first refused to discuss the report Dean had met far more frequently than previously known with Nixon.

However, at 6:45 p.m. Gerald Warren, the President's deputy press secretary, called and volunteered the following statement:

"This story and a similar story to be carried in tomorrow's Washington Post appear to be part of a careful, coordinated strategy by an individual, or individuals, determined to prosecute distortion of fact and outright falsehood.

"This manipulation of the press involves an unprecedented assault on judicial and administrative due process. Its objective, stated in the simplest terms, is to destroy the President. We categorically deny the assertions and implications of this story."

The Times' source said during Dean's meeting with Dash, the former White House counsel did not discuss any specific conversations he held with Nixon because of unresolved questions about national security, executive privilege and the possibility of violation of attorney-client privilege.

Dash was told, the source said, Dean met only 10 times with the President between July 1970 when he was named White House counsel, and early 1973. Over the next three months, however, the source said, as the possibility of further disclosures about Watergate became more threatening, Dean began meeting "frequently and often" with the President, both with small groups and alone.

Asked whether the meetings always concerned Watergate and related matters, the source said: "Dean was not involved with Russia and China. I can assure you."

The source said most of Dean's specific directives came from H. R. Haldeman, the former White House chief of staff who resigned April 30 because of Watergate.

The source also suggested Dean may have tape-recorded some of his White House conversations during the January-April period in the White House.

"Everybody taped everybody else then," the source said. "Dean did it himself."

Dean more recently sought and received White House permission to Xerox his personal files, the sources said, and has now drafted a log of his activities early this year inside the White House in an attempt to buttress his contention of many meetings with the President.

It was the conference with Dash, one source said, that prompted the Senate Watergate Committee to seek immunity from prosecution for Dean in return for his testimony during a public hearing.

Skylab Space Stay May Be Extended

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab's astronauts may spend 10 extra days in space, an official said here Saturday, as the spacemen continue to squeeze useful science from the power-crippled space station.

Kenneth S. Kleinknecht, manager of the Skylab program office at the Johnson Space Center, said an extension of up to 10 days of the 28-day Skylab 1 mission is seriously being studied as one way of getting the most information possible from the $2.6 billion space project.

Astronauts Charles Conrad Jr. and Paul J. Weitz made an earth resources photo pass Saturday over a strip of land from California to Mexico, gathering information on earthquakes, volcanoes and the sources of pollution.

"The pass seemed to go pretty good," said Weitz of the 10-minute photo run which started near San Francisco.

Dr. Joseph P. Kerwin, the third crewman, worked at other Skylab chores.

In a news conference, Kleinknecht said experts here and at Alabama's Marshall Space Flight Center are spending the weekend developing techniques the Skylab 1 crew can use in a space-walking attempt to free a solar power wing which is stuck closed. The wing could provide a critical boost in Skylab's power supply.

Kleinknecht said that other studies indicate it may be possible and desirable to extend the 28-day mission by up to 10 days.

He said by lengthening the mission, it would mean the space station would still be manned when the orbit of the craft carries it into a position that permits sunlight to hit power-producing solar cells practically all the time. This increased sunlight he said, would boost the power available by about 3,000 watts, even without the use of the broken solar wing.

"We certainly would be remiss for not looking at something like this, he said. "We could probably pick up all the experimental data needed on this flight."

The officials also said that fuel cells aboard the Apollo command ship which brought the astronauts to Skylab will become exhausted on the 20th day of the mission, June 13. The fuel cells have been taking part of the electrical load.

Without the fuel cells, said Kleinknecht, "we would have just enough power to sustain the station for eight days," but without performing any experiments.

Then, on the 28th day, June 21, the increased sun angle would bring the spacecraft back up to full power again.

If Conrad, Weitz and Kerwin can successfully deploy the broken solar power wing, said Kleinknecht, the days of low power would be avoided and the need for mission extension would be less.

The wing, composed of panels which convert sunlight to electrical power, could almost double the amount of electricity available aboard Skylab. A sun shield ripped away during the May 14 launch of Skylab and jammed one wing and tore another away altogether.

The astronauts, rested and relaxed after a day of leisure that included their first shower in a week, were up early and eager for work Saturday, their ninth day in space.

It was Conrad's 43rd birthday and Mission Control greeted him with: "Happy birthday, Pete."

"Oh, you remembered," said Conrad.

"Aren't we sweet," joked Mission Control.

"A bouncing 43-year-old this morning," chimed in Weitz.

Using a battery of cameras focused on earth for a second time, Conrad and Weitz sought to gather data on agriculture, geology and urban development along a 2,000-mile strip of land from near San Francisco to central Mexico.

The cameras can explore and map the fault lines which are the source of California earthquakes.

Other information from the photographic pass includes land use in San Francisco; pollution sources in San Francisco Bay, vegetation patterns in the rich agricultural lands of the Imperial Valley and around the Salton Sea; a search for mineral deposits in Mexico, and plotting volcanic activity and subsurface thermal patterns in Mexico.

Haig Job Defended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department says Gen. Alexander M. Haig "has accepted no civil office" in succeeding H.R. Halderman as chief of President Nixon's White House staff.

The general, therefore, does not have to resign his military commission under a law requiring termination of military appointment by an active officer accepting a civil assignment, the Pentagon said.

L. Niederlehner, acting general counsel of the Defense Department, explained the department's position in a letter to Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo.

Symington, acting chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, voiced his disagreement in making public the Niederlehner letter Saturday.

"One can only seriously doubt whether the President has authority, in time of either peace or 'peace with honor', to turn the office of the President into a military command without congressional authority," he said in a letter to William P. Clements Jr., acting secretary of defense.

The Defense Department lawyer said General Haig, recently vice chief of staff of the Army, "is on detail to the office of the President by order of the President under his constitutional authority as commander-in-chief."

"He has accepted no civil office," the letter said. "In fact, there is no defined civil office of 'chief of staff' in the White House."

Niederlehner cited precedents for senior military officers being assigned to the White House: Adm. William H. Leahy as chief of staff to Franklin D. Roosevelt after 1942, Maj. Gen. Wilton B. Persons as chief of President Eisenhower's White House staff, Brig. Gen. Andrew Goodpaster as Eisenhower's staff secretary, and Gen. Maxwell Taylor as President Kennedy's military adviser.

Symington cited differences. Generals Persons and Taylor were on the retired list during their White House service, Adm. Leahy served in time of war, and Gen. Goodpaster "gave special attention to national security matters when serving as White House staff secretary," Symington said.

Fulbright Calls For Policy Review

Washington — Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, called upon Secretary of State William Rogers Saturday to take advantage of the abolition of the Greek monarchy to order a full review of American policy toward the Greek military-led government.

"I believe it is essential on this occasion for the United States government to review its relations with the Junta, taking account in so doing of the present regime's continuing repression of human freedoms," Fulbright said, in a letter made public by his staff.

The administration, which has said little about the abolition of the Greek monarchy and the proclamation by the government Friday of a republic, indicated it was not inclined to make any drastic changes in American policy toward the Athens government.

Thurmond: More Subs

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said Saturday the nation needs more nuclear sea power to meet "the Soviet threat."

"Our nation came close to losing two world wars largely because of a lack of U. S. submarines and an excess of enemy submarines," Thurmond said in an address at the launching of the nuclear attack submarine L. Mendel Rivers in Newport News, Va.

Thurmond said the Soviet Union's submarine force now outnumbers the U. S. force by 110 to 101 and characterized as "even more disturbing" the fact that the Soviets "are currently outbuilding us in submarines by a ratio of about 3 to 1."

Black Student-Teacher Ratio Sharply Decreased

Some 31,500 black teachers have lost their jobs as the result of school integration in 17 Southern states, a group of social-action and education leaders charged last week.

Clarence D. Coleman, regional director for the National Urban League, said the total did not include many other black teachers and administrators "who still have jobs but have been in a sense demoted," such as the black principals who become assistant principals when their schools were consolidated.

The figure showing a loss of 31,584 black teachers was derived from the overall black student-teacher ratio in the 17 states. The group said 1970 statistics showed the states had 118,835 black teachers when there should have been 150,419, based on a 25-to-1 black pupil-black teacher ratio.

Watergate Prosecutor Was Muskie Campaigner

Harvard law professor Archibald Cox, special Watergate prosecutor, ran in the 1972 Massachusetts Presidential Primary election for alternate delegate to the Democratic National Convention pledged to Sen. Edmund Muskie, D-Maine.

Testimony at the Senate confirmation hearings brought out Cox's past affiliation with Democratic administrations but not his association with Muskie's unsuccessful campaign.

Sen. Long Wants Tax Coupled With Subsidy

A proposed new gas tax would have to be coupled with subsidies for transportation to effectively discourage motorists from buying gasoline, Chairman Russell B. Long of the Senate Finance Committee said last week.

Long, in an interview for his homestate television stations in Louisiana, indicated he agreed with Treasury Secretary George Shultz' proposal to discourage fuel consumption with a new gas tax.

"I would think that if I were going to vote for a big gasoline tax to try to keep people from buying so much gas, to make them more careful how they use it," he said, "I would want to spend some of that money to subsidize transportation . . ."

Long's remarks came as the Senate began debate on a bill that would require President Nixon through mandatory allocation regulations to assure equitable distribution of any fuels in short supply.

The final vote on the bill is expected Tuesday.

Commission Recommends Fire Funds Criteria

A presidential commission on fire problems will recommend that federal funds for aiding local fire departments be withheld from departments that discriminate against minority groups, a commission spokesman said Saturday.

The spokesman said the report, to be issued soon, is the result of a two-year study.

He said, "in the administering of federal funds for training or other assistance to local fire departments, the commission recommends that eligibility be limited to those departments that have adopted an effective, affirmative action program related to the employment and promotion of minority groups."

David Peterson, a 122-year-old former slave, died Thursday and was buried Saturday in Dallas. Peterson was alive for the end of the Civil War and the inauguration of manned space flight. Peterson is survived by a daughter and several grandchildren and great-grand children. "This life, as long as you've got it, is blooming," he said last March. "It's just like a merry-go-round, a great thing and nobody can give it but God."

American Killed in Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — An American military adviser was assassinated in Tehran Saturday by an Iranian terrorist who shot him in the head and then hopped on a motorcycle and escaped, the U. S. Embassy reported.

Iranian authorities dispatched guard units to watch over American installations, including three American schools, because of fear the terrorists might strike again against the some 11,000 Americans in Iran. Most of them are businessmen and technicians.

The embassy identified the victim as Lt. Col. Lewis Hawkins, 42, of Plymouth, Ind. In Iran since July, Hawkins was one of several hundred U. S. military advisers and personnel assigned to Iran to work with the local armed forces. His particular job was not disclosed.

Leftists fighting the authoritarian pro-American regime of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi have made Americans in Iran one of their targets in a terrorism effort that began three years ago. The terrorist effort has not substantially shaken the Shah's rule.

As a result, U. S. Ambassador Richard Helms moves around the city accompanied by a heavily armed bodyguard unit.

Four Officers Resign After End of Monarchy

Four top Greek officers resigned Saturday in the wake of the abolition of the manarchy.

About 10,000 Athenian workers held a rally meanwhile in suppgrt of Premier George Papadopoulos as slef-proclaimed president of the new Greek republic. Their demonstration was organized by the Greek General Labor Confederation.

Those who resigned were Lt. Gen. Nicholas Dambasis of the army, Rear Admirals Theodoros Manopoulos and Aristidou Yannopoulos and Vice Air Marshal Emanuel Emanuel. The timing of their departures generated speculation that they were unhappy with abolition of the manarchy and left on their own accord rather than clash with the regine.

One Pilot Dead In Italian Crash

Two Italian military jets returning to their base from a military parade in Rome collided in the air Saturday just before landing. One pilot was killed.

One jet exploded and crashed in the countryside, killing the pilot, Maj. Angelo Gais. The other craft flew to the Tyrrheninan Sea and plunged into the water. Its pilot, Capt. Antonio Gallus, was rescued by military helicopters.

Philippines Authorities Capture Rebel Leader

Philippines military authorities reported Saturday the capture a ranking commander of a notorious rebel liquidation squad under orders to assassinate President Ferdinand Marcos.

Authorities identified the captive as Roberto Santos, 29, alias Commander Felman, described as a Maoist Communist. They said he was captured Friday along with four others, including a woman, in Angeles City near Clark Air Force Base, 60 miles north of Manila.

Col. Nicanor Garcia, deputy constabulary (national police) commander in the area, described Felman as the henchman of Benjamin Sanguyo, 38, alias Commander Pusa (cat), who surrendered to President Marcos in an undisclosed place May 17.

Authorities said Pusa headed the notorious "Sparrow Units" roaming metropolitan Manila to assassinate Marcos, Defense Secretary Juan Ponce Enrile, Information Secretary Francisco Tatad and Armed Forces Chief Romeo Espino. The term "Sparrow Units" is the military's code name for the liquidation squads of the New People's Army (NPA).

Cadet Dropout Rate Troubling Air Force Academy

By James P. Sterba
©The New York Times

Colorado Springs — The Air Force Academy is in trouble.

Its cadets are dropping out in record numbers. A major cheating scandal last year — its third in nine years — claimed 39 juniors, whose absence is still haunting the academy. Last year's top graduate accused the academy recently of being inhuman and unresponsive to change.

Graduation day is Wednesday and 844 members of the class of '73 are preparing themselves for what academy officials hope will be a display of pride, purpose and shorter haircuts. The annual ceremony is a day to renew faith in the 18-year-old academy, but that will not be easy this year.

More than half of its 1970 graduates said, in a questionnaire that officials are now reluctant to discuss, that the academy did not prepare them for an Air Force career, and 53% of them said they would not attend the academy if they had the choice again.

Cloistered on the edge of the Rockies, the academy exudes calm, its officials say things are just fine, and its public relations men discourage probes into the shadows.

"The blue zoo," said one, while pouring his 3.2 beer in a Colorado Springs cadet hangout, "is uptight."

Until last year, an average of 33.4% of those cadets who entered the academy did not graduate. Attrition peaked at 39.4% for the class of 1968, but then fell back to only 28.4% for the class of 1970. Since then, however, it has been rising.

Last year it reached 39.5%, topping the dropout rate at its sister service academies — West Point and Annapolis.

This year, out of the 1,402 cadets who entered in 1969, some 427 resigned and 132 were expelled for an overall attrition rate of 40% over four years.

Next year's graduating class offers no solace. Already, 42.2% of that class has quit or been expelled. With one year to go, officials fear the class of 1974 may graduate only about half the cadets who entered.

The majority of cadet resignations are during the first and second years at the academy. If they drop out later, they are obligated to spend four years as enlisted men in the regular Air Force under a regulation adopted several years ago to discourage attrition.

Brig. Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg Jr., commandant of cadets, said he thought a relaxation of rules and discipline at the academy over the years had lowered cadet morale. Appointed in February, he is tightening up.

When cadet seniors last year were made responsible for regulating fellow cadets, he said, morale, discipline, appearance and attitude suffered. He said cadets mistakenly thought they could make their own rules.

"The military is not run on a democratic vote," he said. The academy is currently "holding the cadets' feet to the fire," he said, and it is working. He added: "The class of '72 has renewed my faith in American youth.

A much different picture of the academy emerged in interviews with dropouts, average cadets, present and former instructors.

One critic, Dr. Louis H. Mutschler, an academy staff psychiatrist from September 1969 to September 1970, said in a telephone interview from Boston:

"I think the bulk of those who quit do so because they are too good for the place . . . They (the cadets) find a disparity between what the academy says it stands for and what it actually stands for . . . They are taught an honor code which says, 'we will not lie, steal, or cheat, nor tolerate among us anyone who does,' but then the system teaches them that it doesn't matter what you do as long as you don't get caught . . ."

Russell Tally, a 22-year-old from Lockhart, Texas, resigned after two years. He said he objected to the "mickey mouse," the irrelevant busy work, and to a lack of cadet responsibility.

His roommate, Keith Kaposta, 20, Shreveport, La., also resigned. "They treat us like children," he said.

Tornado Rams Through Herrin, Ill.

Man Buys Boats, Scatters $100 Bills

Fort Lauderdale, Fla. (UPI) — The FBI Saturday was checking on some of the bills left behind by a man who paid $45,000 in cash for three boats, then scattered thousands more on the water as he sped away

A man described as "gorilla"-like by employes at the Everglades Marina created quite a stir when he showed up with three women companions Friday, put down the cash and took off. As he left, he scattered $100 bills in the water. Several startled fishermen jumped in to retrieve the bills.

The FBI was known to be checking on some of the bills, but authorities stressed there appeared to be no violations of the law involved in the case.

The identity of the man or where he and his companions had gone remained unknown.

One rumor circulating in boating circles in this resort city is that he is a recent recipient of a large inheritance "out to have a good time."

"He could have gone anywhere within 250 miles," said Don Lindenbolt, manager of the Everglades Marina, where the boats were purchased. "Then he could have gassed up again and gone another 250 miles."

The man was described as "about six-foot-six and 220 pounds who sort of looked like a gorilla — big and dark-haired."

Tour Bus Mishap Injures 41

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty-one tourists were injured Saturday when the fully loaded third section of their tourmobile overturned on a hilly curve in Arlington National Cemetery, U S Park Police said

The vehicle overturned just past the Kennedy gravesites, police said, injuring all but one of the persons in the last section of the train-like vehicle Most of the injuries were minor.

The driver, Norman C. Baptist, 32, was charged with reckless driving and failure to maintain proper control of a vehicle, Police Capt. M.R. Lomax said

The nine persons most seriously hurt were treated at Arlington Hospital and the others were taken to a clinic at Ft Myer, adjacent to the sprawling cemetery, Lomax said

The most seriously injured had severe lacerations, a hospital spokesman said.

The slow-moving tourmobile is an open-air vehicle with three cars in tandem.

Baptist apparently lost control of the vehicle on a downgrade curve about 2:40 p.m. EDT after leaving the burial sites of President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, Lomax said.

Baptist told Metromedia radio it was his first day as a driver on the three-unit trams "Actually I don't think I had the proper training," he said.

Brandt Will Visit Israel

Bonn, Germany (AP) — Chancellor Willy Brandt will visit Israel this week, and his first act will be to stand in reverence at a memorial to Jewish victims of the Nazis.

It will be a gesture full of symbolism and emotion.

A German leader will be in Jerusalem, standing on a hill at the Yad Vashem Memorial to victims of the Nazi holocaust.

Before him, inscribed in stone, will be the names of the concentration camps where Germans murdered six million Jews.

The West German chancellor, who fell to his knees at the Warsaw ghetto memorial in Poland on Dec. 7, 1970, will be bringing to Israel this coming Thursday his message of reconciliation between Germans and Jews.

It will be the first visit to Israel by a West German chancellor while in office.

Jews who cannot accept a visit by any German surely will condemn it, and protests are expected. But supporters of the four-day visit feel Brandt is uniquely qualified to make the symbolic gesture.

Israeli foreign minister, Abba Eban, said Brandt "has shown deep sensitivity to the special historte and moral background to the ties between our two countries."

Willy Brandt

The visit by the Nobel Peace Prize winner to see Israel, "and in it the remnants of the holocaust," Eban said, will have "deep historic significance."

Brandt himself said in a recent interview: "No chancellor can go to Israel overlooking, forgetting, the terrible past . . ."

$30,000 Relief For Bangladesh

Minneapolis, Minn. (AP) — A space filler in a church women's magazine has brought in $30,000 for relief in Bangladesh. An inch-long filler was needed next to an article on human suffering in the Asian country in the June 1972 issue of Scope, magazine of the American Lutheran Church Women.

Mrs. Audrey Teeple, magazine designer, inserted a plea that, if each subscriber would donate 25 cents, about $80,000 could be raised for Lutheran World Relief for Bangladesh.

Beside a flood of quarters, "quite a few" gave $300 or $400, and one gave $1,000, said Mrs. Irene Sagebiel, director of stewardship.

Pope Paul Praises Pope John

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI said Saturday some persons distort the thinking of his predecessor, John XXIII, "as if he were the patron of protesters."

Pope Paul said the pontiff who set off a chain reaction of renewal in the Roman Catholic church was, in fact, "imbibed with tradition." He spoke in a homily during a solemn Mass in St. Peter's Basilica marking the 10th anniversary of Pope John's death.

Pope John died on June 3, 1963, after a papacy of 4½ years. Many change-prone sectors in the Church have accused Pope Paul of slowing down or even stopping the "aggiornamento," the updating that his predecessor inaugurated for Roman Catholicism.

Pope Paul turned a solemn commemorative celebration into a passionate defense of his own policies.

Thirty cardinals, scores of bishops and archbishops, diplomats and more than 20,000 persons attended the papal Mass.

In the front rows were Giuseppe Roncalli, 79, one of Pope John's surviving brothers, and two dozens of nephews and grand-nephews. Saverio, the other surviving brother, stayed at home in the native village of Sopra Il Monte in northern Italy.

"Saverio has a serious ailment. He is 90," Giuseppe explained.

Pope Paul referred to the "affection which Pope John always showed to us and which during the few and discreet contacts we had with him during his brief pontificate appeared to us to be on his part purposely effusive and full of particular confidence and maybe of prophetic predilection."

GAO Says:

Millions Wasted On Tire Testing

By Dan Jedlicka
(c) Chicago Sun-Times

Chicago — The government apparently has wasted several million dollars in its attempt to provide safer vehicles.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration spent more than half of its 1970-72 fiscal year's testing outlay of $4 8 million for testing tires — although tire disablements account for a strikingly small percentage of highway accidents, the Chicago Sun-Times learned

The General Accounting Office, (GAO), watchdog over federal spending, said in a recent, little-publicized report to congress what the tire industry has been saying for years — that tires are not significant factors in traffic accidents and that the government is spending too much time and money testing them.'

That's about the kindest official pronouncement tiremakers have heard since federal standards of cars and their equipment, including tires, went into effect on Jan 1, 1968

Since then, "consumer champions" in and out of the political scene periodically have made tires their target in campaigns for more government regulation

Senator Gaylord Nelson (D-Wis) went so far in 1969 as to proclaim that "perhaps two-thirds of all new tires sold had potentially hazardous defects." Nelson cited an unnamed Transportation Dept "spokesman ' as his source. But the Department said it had no knowledge of either the alleged spokesman or such statistics

The GAO noted in the report that the Transportation Dept has continued to put more emphasis on tires than anything else in testing for compliance with motor vehicle standards despite evidence that tire disablements have contributed to only a small percentage of highway accidents

In the fiscal years 1970-72, the Department's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, spent $2.5 million for tire testing — more than half of its total testing outlay.

In contrast, vehicle testing accounted for $1 4 million and testing of "other equipment" totaled $913,943, the GAO report said

U.S. Comptroller Gen. Elmer B. Staats concluded in the GAO report that the Safety Administration should re-evaluate its testing priorities. It should, he said, spend less money in testing tires and more on testing brakes, headlights, and other safety-related equipment. Many American cars have marginal brakeing capabilities and the light that their headlights are allowed to emit is no greater today than it was in the 1930's because of archaic state laws.

"If the Safety Administration's emphasis on testing tires was brought more in line with the small significance of tires as a factor in traffic accidents, proportionately greater attention could be focused on safety problem indicators and on standard areas having a higher potential for reducing traffic accidents injuries and deaths" the report said

Backing up its position, the GAO presented recent accident data provided by the National Bureau of Standards, the Traffic Institute of Northwestern University and the Highway Safety Research Institute at the University of Michigan

The Bureau of Standards estimated that tire disablements contributed to only between six-tenths of one% and 1 6% of highway accidents. The Traffic Institute figured that tire disablements contributed to less than one-tenth of one % of accidents.

And the Highway Safety Research Institute found that tires were involved in only 30 of 2,500 accident investigations filed in its computer as of September, 1972 Beyond this, at least 19 of those 30 cases involved tires that were worn or underinflated, the GAO said

States have gradually been enacting minimum tread depth laws But 14 states, which register 15.5% of the nation's autos, still have no such laws. They are Alabama, Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, Idaho, Kansas, Maine, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon and Tennessee

California permits tires to remain in service until worn to 1-32nds of an inch.

Keep Dad in fashion

SPORT COATS by Haspel

"Cool" is the most perfect word for the way Dad will look and feel in one of these wonderful Sport Coats. There's never been a better way to beat the heat and humidity than Seersucker. And Haspel still leads the Seersucker Parade. For years they have been foremost in making this excellent fabric a perennial favorite. For fashion, they styled these coats in a moderate, two-button, flap pocket model with a center vent. For action-comfort and easy-care, wash and wearability, they tailored them in crisp 100% texturized polyester that let's you live without wrinkles. Let's you move unrestricted. And that's not all. Look at the colors! The Blues are still good and still here — but there are also Browns and Burgundies if Dad prefers. Stripes are traditional and they are still very good — but Haspel has added Mini-Checks, too. So let your Dad step up to summer smartly in a Haspel Seersucker Sport Coat. His size is here in Regulars, Shorts, Longs and Extra Longs.

Israel Asks U.S.: Don't Sell Planes

Washington (AP) — Isreali Ambassador Simcha Dinitz met Saturday with Henry A. Kissinger in an effort to persuade United States not to sell Phantom jets to Saudi Arabia and Kuwait

The meeting with the national security adviser was at least the third session Dinitz has held this week with top U.S. officials concerning the sale of the high-powered jets to the Persian Gulf states

U S officials have indicated some 30 Phantoms will be sold to Saudi Arabia, while the Nixon administration is considering providing slightly fewer of the planes to Kuwait

Israeli officials said Dinitz told Kissinger that his government understands the American desire to insure stability in the oil-rich Persian Gulf area.

However, Kissinger was told that Israel doubts that the Arab states in that part of the world need large numbers of these sophisticated fighter-bombers to insure cooperation and security.

Dinitz reportedly repeated to Kissinger what he had said in two earlier meetings this week with Assistant Secretary of State Joseph Sisco.

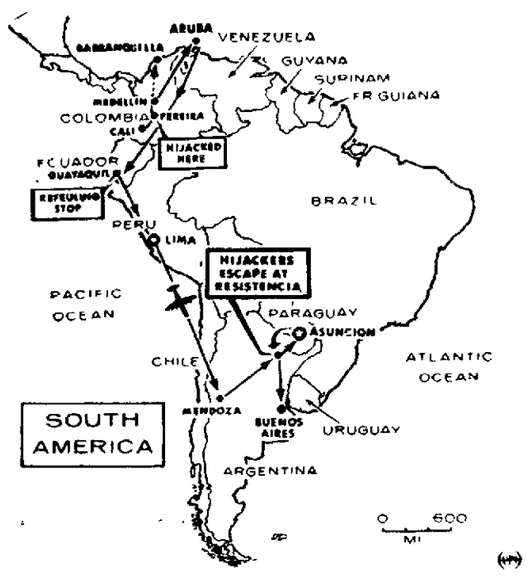
Saudi Arabia is an Arab state that is not friendly to Israeli presence in the Middle East and is close enough to launch phantom attacks against the entire territory of Israel.

The Israelis also are concerned that both Saudi Arabia and Kuwait might transfer the new American Weaponry to other Arab states, namely Egypt or Syria, for an attack on Israel

They say the provisions prohibiting transfers to third nations contained in the sale agreement have not always been effective in the past and there would be no way to prevent effectively such action in the future.

According to the Israeli sources, Kissinger in the hour-long meeting with Dinitz promised to look into the situation. However, he reportedly gave no assurances to substantiate Israeli hopes for heading off the sale of the Phantoms.

The Israeli officials pointed out that Sisco also promised to consider Israeli expressions of concern, but has not yet been heard from on the matter.



Record-setting Hijackers Disappear With $50,000

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Two masked gunmen who set hijacking records put a mysterious end to their three-day odyssey by sneaking off the commandeered airliner and disappearing Saturday with $50,000.

The young air pirates picked up the ransom money from the Colombian airline on a Caribbean stopover, then ordered the plane on a nation-hopping run through western South America.

When the airliner reached Buenos Aires, the hijackers were gone, the more than 80 original passengers had been released or had escaped since the ordeal began Wednesday.

The pilot said both hijackers got away at Resistencia, in a remote and thinly populated area of northern Argentina near the Brazilian and Paraguayan borders. Police patrols began a search there.

But a police official in Buenos Aires said after authorities questioned the plane's crew of six that he believed one of the hijackers got off at Resistencia and the other on the next stop at Asuncion, Paraguay.

The official asked not to be identified. He gave no further details.

Wherever they were, the two were assumed to be seeking rest after three sleepless days of forcing the airliner to fly 15,000 miles.

Authorities said that was a record distance for a hijacked plane. The three days of travel at gunpoint, with stops every five or six hours to refuel from Central America to Buenos Aires, was a hijack endurance record.

The four-engined Lockheed Electra finally landed early Saturday at Ezeiza International Airport. Waiting newsmen thought the two hijackers were aboard, ready to surrender.

But they weren't. Police refused to say where they might be, and the SAM airline of Colombia, owner of the Lockheed, did not clarify the mystery.

Capt. Hugo Molina, the aircraft's exhausted pilot, told newsmen the hijackers had left the plane in Resistencia, Argentina, and made their getaway in a pickup truck left by authorities near the runway.

Molina said the hijackers had threatened to kill a stewardess held as hostage if the truck was not provided. But this failed to explain why police did not chase the hijackers after they fled in the pickup, without hostages.

The afternoon newspaper Cronica said the hijackers claimed to be left-wing guerrillas and threatened that fellow guerrillas back home would kill relatives of the airliner's crew if the hijackers were not permitted to make a getaway.

The SAM airline of Colombia tentatively identified the hijackers as Gildardo Rivera, who boarded the plane in Cali, and Ario Howards, who got on in Pereira.

That was Wednesday. The airliner was on a scheduled domestic flight in Colombia when two men, wearing masks, seized the craft.

During the three days that followed the gunmen never removed their masks and never slept. They permitted most of the 86 passengers and crew to leave the airliner during refueling stops. Only three stewardesses, Molina, a copilot and engineer were aboard at the end of the ordeal Saturday morning.

Resistencia, 500 miles north of Buenos Aires in Argentina's poor and sparsely settled Chaco region, is near the Paraguay and Brazil borders. The airliner landed there for less than a minute, Friday night, then gunned its engines and took off. Newsmen said police were not at the airport and no car was spotted speeding away.

Molina, who had been flying for more than 30 hours, then landed in Asuncion, Paraguay. The plane stayed five minutes, at the heavily guarded airport, then departed for Buenos Aires.

The Asuncion stop raised speculation the hijackers, might have debarked there instead of Resistencia.

Libyans Storm Radio Station

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — President Moammar Khadafy told his people Saturday to get on with their cultural revolution. They responded by storming the Tripoli radio station and setting up a "people's committee" to admnister it, a Libyan official said.

Normal programming was temporarily interrupted by patriotic songs and calls for support of Khadafy's regime.

Reagan 'Itching' to Get Out And Sell Conservative Views

By Paul Hope
(c)Washington Star-News

Sacramento — Gov. Ronald Reagan said in an interview he is "itching" to get out and sell his conservative philosophy to the country and implied if the voters were in a buying mood, he wouldn't mind going to the White House in 1976.

"I don't think you could walk away from this and go back to the ranch and ride horses," said the governor, whose second term is ending in 20 months.

Reagan who ruled out any possibility of running for governor again, said he plans to be active on the "mashed potato" circuit between now and 1976 and he expects to take an active part in the congressional campaigns next year

The Republican party will be trying mightily in 1974 to increase its strength in both the House and the Senate, and prospective candidates for the presidential nomination, including Reagan, will be trying to pick up political I.O.U.'s by helping

Ronald Reagan

"I've always believed when you hold office you sort of have a contract with the party to help further your party in office," he said during the interview.

He dodged the question of when he would have to make a formal decision to run for the nomination.

"I don't think an individual makes that decision I think that people make that determination," he said

"Everybody does what he has to do, what he feels he has to do. My feeling really about 1976 is that events that are going to take place in the next few years are going to bring names up, and names will go down, and people will be talking about names that have not even been thought of."

Reagan, 62, acknowledged Vice President Spiro Agnew and recently-converted Republican John O'Connally are top men to be reckoned with in the presidential sweepstakes

"Both are tremendously capable men These are two men who have proven themselves in high position and undoubtedly must be under consideration by the people," he said

Reagan said it is too early to tell what lasting effects the Watergate scandal may have on the Republican party, but he said he does not believe it automatically means that 1974 will be a Democratic year at the polls.

"Admittedly, it was a mess, but it was mess on the part of a handful of individuals," he said

"It would be a terrible guilt-by-association thing," he said, if the Watergate scandal should reflect on all Republicans

"It might hurt all incumbents," he said. "There's a strange thing stirring among a lot of people — a pox on both their houses 1974 could be the year for the newcomer Everybody might say, 'Let's start with a clean slate'"

Antioch College Trustees Give President Authority

NEW YORK (AP)—The Antioch College board of trustees has defeated by a 2-1 margin a motion of no confidence in the Ohio institution's president and his handling of a 43-day-old student strike

The trustees voted in executive session after former Antioch President Arthur E. Morgan, 95, wrote the board to charge James Dixon with responsibility for the student unrest

Dixon said Saturday he had neither seen nor heard about Morgan's letter "and in fact I couldn't care less"

Ending a two-day meeting held here because of what has been described as a crisis at the Yellow Springs college, the trustees gave Dixon full authority to deal with the situation

Sheriff's deputies reopened the school Friday after a court injunction was issued against the six-week strike by students demanding guaranteed financial aid for four years for needy students. The college has said it could promise the aid for only two years because of uncertain financial conditions

When deputies reopened the administration building Friday, they found overturned desks, smashed typewriters and stink bombs and eggs scattered around the offices.

A spokesman for the strikers, who had barricaded themselves in the building, said they had no knowledge of how the damage occurred

Students later cleaned up the building, but school officials said it was vandalized again overnight

A school spokesman said classes were expected to resume Monday but predicted it would be a week before the main building was functioning normally.

Detailed Financial Reports Given

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirteen House members have voluntarily made personal financial reports far more detailed than members are required to file.

A study of the required reports also discloses that five members have apparently given up law practices they formerly were active in, and 15 have apparently dropped outside business interests.

The findings were reported Saturday by the National Committee for an Effective Congress, a private organization interested in congressional reform, which has analyzed the reports.

It confined its report primarily to the 363 members who also served in the last Congress, on the grounds that the 72 freshman members have not yet had time to divest themselves of outside interests.

Under House rules, members must report by April 30 of each year their outside financial, business and professional affiliations. The reports are available to the public, but not the monetary value of such interests, which is filed separately and kept secret. The Senate's disclosure rule is so limited as to be meaningless, the NCEC said.

The study found 117 non-freshmen House members reporting outside affiliations, 32 of them more than one. Although the total is down from NCEC's first study a year ago, Russell D. Hemenway, director of NCEC, said comparison is not valid because of the exclusion of the 1972 freshmen.

The largest single affiliation is with law practices, 41 members listing some connection with a law firm. Hemenway noted that the American Bar Association's code of professional responsibility includes a rule designed to discourage such an affiliation by a full-time public official.

This ABA rule, when adopted by a state bar and approved by that state's supreme court, as has occurred in almost all 50 states, becomes grounds for grievance proceedings and even disbarment, Hemen way said.

The 13 members who made financial disclosures beyond those required by the House rules are Reps. Bill Archer, R-Tex.; James Broyhill, R-N.C.; Pierre M du Pont, R-Del.; Dante Fascell, D-Fla.; Gilbert Gudel R-Md.; Edward I. Koch, D-N.Y.; Charles A. Mosher, R-Ohio; J. J. Pickle, D-Tex.; William A. Steiger, R-Awis.; Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz.; Guy Vander Jagt, R-Mich.; Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif.; and Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis.

One Man Had Bright Idea, Moved His House

'Rural Lines' Tells Birth and Growth of REA

Washington (AP) — Electricity was a new-fangled thing to most of rural America in the late 1930s and $5 was big money to farm families trying to burrow out the the depression years, even when the fee money meant that their local co-op could begin stringing power lines to their kerosens-lighted homes.

The Rural Electrification Administration says many farmers in those times also worried "about getting in debt to the government" by belonging to a cooperative which, in turn, got federal funds to build power lines.

A practice then was to charge a farmer $5 to join an electric co-op. If his home was close enough to the power line route, he would be assured of electric service.

"A South Carolinian who helped organize a cooperative in Williamsburg County remembers a time when it 'was hard to get hold of $5 because $5 looked as big as a tabletop in 1939.' In his drive for members he sometimes had to take $2 cash and a note for the other $3," the REA says in a new edition of a brochure.

One Farm in Ten

The 41-page booklet, titled "Rural Lines," recounts the origins of REA and its development since President Roosevelt signed an executive order creating the agency on May 11, 1935. Congress followed a year later with specific legislation, and by Dec. 29, 1936 the first REA loans were made.

Only one farm in 10 had electricity in 1935. Today, nearly 99 out of 100 have it. Electric cooperatives, more than 1,000 of them owned by rural patrons, now have assets totaling $7.7 billion.

The brochure is an updated version of one first issued in 1960 and revised in 1966 Luis L Granados, REA information specialist, says the new booklet will be sent to each rural electric co-op and its board members.

A limited supply of copies also will be available free of charge upon request, Granados said. Previous editions have been popular among high school students and others who are interested in rural history, he said.

Too Far Away

The bruchure includes anecdotes and illustrations, many of them poignant reminders than farm life not so long ago was dark and often dreary between sunset and dawn. A promise of electricity was, for most families, the boldest event of all.

"On the other side of the coin was the unhappy fact that many farmers who wanted electricity could not be included in the first systems built," the report says. "They were too far from the main line, or they lived in areas where not enough neighbors had signed up "

A goal of REA in the early years was area coverage but co-ops also had to repay their debts and a line had to pay its way or it could not be built, the report says.

The story is told of a Georgia farmer who tried to join a local electric co-op for $5 but was informed that his home was too far away from the power line and would have to pay $165 to have it extended A week later he returned, waving his $5 bill.

"I moved my house," the farmer said

Paid Fee Quickly

It had cost the farmer $50 to prepare a new foundation, roll his house across the fields and set it up a few feet from the line

During the initial signups for power service, co-op representatives found that it was often easier to enlist the help of farm wives by having them present during sales talks.

"They looked at her when they talked about lights to help the children study or when the described electric refrigeration," the report says. "Often the housewife would pay the signup fee before the organizers had finished arguing with her husband."

After the current actually began flowing through the new lines into homes, hundreds of stories about how rural people reacted sprang up. The brochure recounts a number:

— A Kentucky dairy farmer recalls how his home had been wired with only bare bulbs hanging from ceilings. When the power was turned on, his father stood holding the pull-chain to the light in the kitchen. "Come here and hang onto this so I can turn on the light in the sitting room," he called to his son.

— At a general store in Georgia, the storekeeper boasted of his new electric light for a month before discovering that it was only the night light over his cash register. When a co-op representative showed him how to turn on the rest of his lights, he was speechless.

— "The day we got our radio," wrote one farm wife, "we put it in the kitchen window, aimed it out at the fields, and turned it on full blast. During the first week, the men hated to be out of the sound of it."

— Not all rural people felt at ease with electricity. It was, after all, the same as lightning. One woman kept a new electric iron for weeks before gathering up sufficient courage to try it. Her neighbor always used a potholder to turn on her electric switches. Another kept sockets plugged at all times for fear the electricity would leak out, and one woman wrote the REA to ask how to turn off her bedroom light at night.

Fine Wine for $250 a Glass

Atlanta, Ga (AP) — a glass of wind for $250?

That's the way the high bid worked out at an auction of rare wines when a rehoboam of 1929 Chateau Mouton-Rothschild brought $6,000

The bid was offered by Richard Kronheim a wholesale liquor distributor of Washington, D C, who made the offer by mail A rehoboam is equal to six 24-ounce European bottles, and his bid averaged $1,000 a bottle or $250 for a six-ounce glass

Spock at Counter-Commencement

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Marcus Welby may be a hit in the television ratings, but he's not too popular with a group of would-be doctors from the University of Michigan

Some of the medical school students are staging their own counter-commencement to protest the selection of Robert Young, who plays a doctor on the TV series, "Marcus Welby, M D ," as the graduation speaker.

David Morens, a spokesman for the protesting students, said medical school seniors last year named Young third on a list of possible commencement speakers First was Sen Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass He declined the invitiation, Morens said.

The second choice was Dr Benjamin Spock and Morens said the medical school's executive committee skipped right over him and invited Young.

"Some people feel very offended that Robert Young is invited. Many thought it was a joke when he was suggested as a speaker," Morens said

He said he contacted Spock, an outspoken opponent of the war on Vietnam, and asked him to speak at the counter-commencement on Thursday Spock accepted and will speak on "Society and Health Care" Morens said

With temperatures in the 80's, Lincolnites headed for a splash in the waters of eight municipal pools which opened for business Friday.

LHA Is Within $200,000 Of Paying Off Arnold Heights

The Lincoln Housing Authority (LHA) is within $200,000 of paying off the $5.9 million indebtedness incurred in July 1970 when the 1,000 residential units in Arnold Heights were purchased.

This was learned Saturday night as Richard Burke, executive director, said there will be a slowdown but no cutoff yet in the sale of Arnold Heights units.

Payments on the $5.9 million indebtedness to the General Services Administration (GSA) and Bankers Life Nebraska have been generated by the sale of some 500 units during the past 18 months and rental revenue on the others.

Since 150 of the remaining 500 rented units are in LHA's lease-rent program, they will not be sold.

Burke and Doug Alford, LHA chairman, said some of the remaining 350 will be sold if prospects show up.

However, both emphasized that LHA recognizes the need for some of this type of rental property to be accessible to moderate by low-income families. Not much of this type is available in Lincoln, they said.

Many of the unsold units also are three-bedroom duplexes, which may be more desirable as rental rather than purchase property.

Burke said the sale prices on no more than six of the 22 styles built on the former air base housing land were raised in March, because they were out of line.

He said this was the first increase since the units were placed on the market in September 1971. At that time, LHA had the assistance of the Federal Housing Administration and the Lincoln Board of Realtors in appraising and establishing sale prices.

According to Burke, the need for price hikes on the six of 22 styles was brought to LHA's attention by polite but pointed comments from city real estate circles.

Burke said it is true that the original prices were lower than what a comparable house in Lincoln would cost. He said this compensated for Arnold Heights' distance from the city and the military-type construction.

What can LHA do with surplus funds after the $200,000 balance is paid off?

Burke points out that the rented units soon will be 20 years old and will be needing major repairs, such as new roofs, exterior painting and some two miles of sidewalk replacement.

On the other hand, he concurs with Alford that LHA hopes to add to public housing in a modest, orderly fashion through any accumulated funds.

As Alford sees it, the concept to be followed would be more scattered family units, such as the 120 completed this year and the 120-unit high-rise senior citizen housing complex being constructed under the auspices of the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The senior citizen complex in Havelock will be dedicated soon, before occupancy, and the 120 scattered units all have low-income family tenants.

In addition to paying off its bills, LHA notes that sale of the 500 or so units has put these houses on the tax rolls — about a $300,000 annual contribution to city and county government.

The selling prices on four to six styles out of 22 different kinds were adjusted from $500 to $3,000 per house.

Nebraska Votes in Congress

Washington — Following are votes of area members of Congress on major issues during the week ending May 18, 1973.

SENATE

Clears way for vote on anti-war amendment — (HR 7447) Vote on whether the amendment, barring any funds in the bill or in any previous appropriations from being used to support combat activities in or over Cambodia and Laos, was germane to a supplemental appropriations bill under consideration. Cuts off all funds for combat activities in Cambodia and Laos — (HR 7447) Amendment prohibiting any funds in the bill and any funds previously appropriated by Congress from being used to support combat activities in or over Cambodia and Laos. Adopted 63-19: R 20-16; D 43-3; May 31 A "nay" was a vote supporting the President's position. Curtis and Hruska both voted no.

HOUSE

Fails by tie vote to set date for private ownership of gold — (HR 6912) Amendment allowing private purchase, sale and ownership of gold by U.S. citizens after Dec. 31, 1973; instead of at a date to be determined by the President. Rejected 162-162: R 95-59; D 67-103. May 29. Thone and Martin voted yes. McCollister voted no

Council Will Again Face Drive-in Theater Vote

Lincoln City Council members Monday will again face a vote on a special permit of Davis Theatres to construct a three-screen drive-in theatre near Yolande St. and Corhusker Hwy. The council tied 3-3 on the question last week.

Unless someone changes his vote, the matter could appear on the council agenda indefinitely, according to City Atty. Dick Wood. Councilman Max Denney declared a conflict of interest last week and did not vote.

A concern over possible traffic control problems in the area apparently has prompted the council's indecision.

A report from the traffic engineering Dept. indicated any use of the property would add to traffic problems at the intersection. The developer has agreed to follow several stipulations already set by the Council.

Skeeters Breeding As Nibbling Season Nears

By Bess Jenkins

It's going to be a good season in Nebraska for the mosquito population but bad for humans — especially those in the Niobrara area.

When asked how bad, State Health Dept. medical entomologist William Rapp of Lincoln replied the situation is just as bad if not worse than it was at Niobrara last July when hastily-called conferences, emergency state funds and aircraft spraying were needed to kill off the massive infestations there.

Physicians in the area and state health officials urged the all-out effort as they expressed concern for the people and general public health. Fortunately, Rapp noted, the infesting mosquitoes were not the type which can transmit sleeping sickness or encephalitis.

Despite intermittent state and Army Engineer Corps efforts, Rapp said nothing has changed in the border area near Gavins Dam and the Missouri to head off another fullblown siege by the biting insects.

It may turn out the west may be the best of all Nebraska this summer if mosquitoes bother you.

Rapp predicts the insect population will be higher than normal throughout the eastern third of the state from South Dakota to Kansas.

The influx helped mightily by standing water from heavy rains and floods is expected to hit sometime this month, in Rapp's opinion.

Areas all along the Platte River may feel the same biting experiences as July comes along.

"The river is high now but wait until it starts to recede next month and folks in those areas will be fighting them off, too," Rapp said.

Alerting

This is why he and others in the State Health Dept. are alerting communities and offering them technical assistance to prepare for the airborne enemy — mostly by eliminating standing water areas.

His belief that Lincoln-Lancaster won't escape the bumper crop this year is supported by city-county health officials.

"There's a lot of standing water in Lancaster County today," Rapp said, adding most of it is the result of man-made errors.

He swooped down on State Highway Dept. roadbuilders as one of the worst offenders in providing breeding places for disease-carrying insects. County road construction planning did not escape Rapp's wrath, either.

"The state and counties spend millions to build highways but leave roadside ditches which hold water where enough mosquitoes can breed to come out of our ears," Rapp said.

Though Rapp said such examples exist in the Lincoln community, city-county health director George Underwood and Orville DeFrain, assistant environmental health chief, believe some of th hatching spots are being eliminated.

DeFrain recalls how "our department practically stood behind Interstate crews as they constructed the town segment through Belmont. It bothered them but there are not many mosquitoes along that stretch and the area."

However, DeFrain is critical about lack of local governmental cooperation, planning and fund spending to eliminate long-standing breeding spots in some Lincoln parks or on school property.

He cited the ditch running through Ballard Park and parts of Havelock as the main source for that area's consistently high mosquito rate year after year This is documented through the department's mosquito light trap readings

Citizens had better drain out all places or receptacles holding standing water at once, DeFrain warns, unless they want their home to become the "Home Sting Home" of 1973's newborn mosquitoes.

Hatching Out

"Once the sun gets out and stays out and warm temperatures take over for the season, mosquito eggs will be hatching out every 10 days in Lincoln," predicts DeFrain.

Rapp and others like Mayor Lester Fitch of Niobrara admit that the community's residents would be hard put to keep standing water cleared up there.

After all, the same water runoff and silt from Gavins Dam and the Missouri River dictating relocation of the town brought on the big mosquito scare last July.

Fitch agrees with Rapp that Niobrara has done nothing much to ward off a repeat performance this year. But, adds Fitch, he did not understand the Army Engineers would be willing to put up substantial matching funds this year.

"Maybe we can still do something," said banker Fitch Saturday, explaining he thought it would take at least $1,000 locally. He has been told there are no funds available this year from the governor's emergency fund or State Health Dept. — only technical assistance.

Rapp said Niobrara's inaction is puzzling, especially since the mosquitoes or their cause won't disappear when the town is relocated on higher elevations just south of the existing community's borders.

After all, he went on, the Aedes Vexans type of mosquito invading Niobrara last July can fly eight to 10 miles.

This airborne ability complicates the Niobrara problem, Rapp concedes, in view of the fact that South Dakota right across the three-mile wide Missouri also has its share of mosquito breeding places.

In its present state of reorganization, Rapp and Fitch say South Dakota has no legal provisions yet for areas to form mosquito abatement districts.

That route also is the one which Fitch said Niobrara wants to take, though "this takes time and requires an election."

This approach is the one which army engineers have advocated, according to Rapp and Fitch. Once formed, such a district will make it easier for the Engineers to continue helping Niobrara's mosquito control with federal money, said Rapp.

To lick the problem effectively, Rapp estimates the district will need a $15-20,000 annual budget, with $10,000 for a full time person to supervise the year-round control program.

Budig Ranks First At Illinois State U

The president of Illinois State University has resigned, leaving former Nebraskan Gene Budig, 34 as the top-ranking administrator on the campus.

Gene Budig

Budig said in a telephone interview Saturday that no one has been asked to serve as acting president nor has the University of Illinois Board of Regents started looking for a permanent replacement.

The regents will meet in Chicago Tuesday to discuss filling the vacancy according to Budig

Budig is currently vice president and dean, a position which ranks second to the president. Located at Bloomington-Normal, Illinois State University is the oldest and second largest public institution of higher learning in Illinois.

David Berlo resigned under pressure after being investigated by the state legislature for alleged excessive spending for construction of a president's house and entertainment.

Budig, a McCook native spent six years at the University of Nebraska in administrative and teaching positions He resigned as NU director of public affairs in June 1972 to go to Illinois State University.

State Fairgrounds Is Stage For All-Arabian Horse Show

Their names range from Ali-Al-Imtorro to Radio Emcee to Ken, but they all claim some common ground. All are horses boasting Arabian blood and all are entered in the Nebraska All-Arabian Horse Show.

The show, 280 entries strong, began Saturday at the State Fairgrounds and will continue through this afternoon. Of 105 exhibitors from across the country, about 30 are Nebraskans, according to show manager Earl Scudder of Lincoln. The 61-event show is sponsored by the Arabian Horse Assn. of Nebraska.

Concluding Saturday's competitions was an Arabian costume class, a lavish affair with a dazzling display featuring, besides the horses, indigo, vermilion, chartreuse and other hued garments for riders To ensure that the pageantry did not get too much out of hand, exhibitors allowing their horses to attain "extreme or reckless speed" were penalized.

Some costumes, specially ordered from Africa or Egypt for authenticity, cost as much as $7,500, Scudder said.

Another Saturday event, Arabian park horses, was reminiscent of a 19th Century Currier & Ives lithograph. Riders donned boutonieres, derbies and tails to walk, trot and canter their horses around the arena before judges.

A Saturday trail horse competition required horses to maneuver an obstacle course. Among other things, the horses had to pass a stationary but roaring minibike without spooking, traverse a tractor tire and a blanket, on which was a simulated snake, and cross a small bridge.

Arabians are known as versatile horses, Scudder said. The breed is ancient, and 20 centuries ago the Arabian horse was essentially the same as it is today. It is known for its ideal disposition, which is both fiery and tractable, resulting in style and beauty as well as trainability, according to Scudder.

If for sale, the horses exhibited at the show would range in price form $500 for some half-Arabians to as much as $200,000 for a purebred Arabian stallion, said ringmaster Ted Jeary of Hyannis.

The show resumes today at 8 a m, with championship competitons scheduled. Winners will go to national contests at Oklahoma City in August.

Royal Gentleman, an Arabian stallion owned by Lawrence Arabians and ridden by Pepper Crownover, walks over a blanket containing a simulated snake without visibly flinching. A 'Deal' for Bosses Whose Workers Drink—Too Much

Businessmen and industrial leaders often don't want to face the fact that they have employes in their company with a growing alcoholic problem And most don't want to pay to face this truth

Board member J. Ross Martin of the Lincoln Council on Alcoholism and Drugs offered this observation as the United Fund supported agency had its hearing before a budget subcommittee.

Several board members and Council Director Bob Adams assured the hearing group that program plans for 1974 include a businessman's package deal that can help the boss help his worker before it's too late

The council is asking for $45 000 from United Fund toward its proposed $54,282 budget for the 1974 year.

$635,614 Proposed

Goodwill Industries representatives reported serving 183 different clients and placing 97 rehabilitated clients in the local employment stream during the year.

They project a 1974 budget of $3[illegible],963 seeking $40,233 from United Fund The current budget is $348,459, with $27,500 from the United Fund

The YMCA's proposed budget is $635,614, less than the current $651,500 but increased United Fund money is requested: $115,614, compared to $90,000 this year.

According to the YMCA representatives at their budget hearing, $90,000 would be base support from United Fund The remainder would assist the Y-Pals operation, which has lost federal aid, a low income program busing for youths, and salary increases.

Capital Debt

Assistant YMCA Director C. E Armstrong said the current capital fund drive would be extended because of less success to date than anticipated The goal is $600,000 in order to reduce a capital debt of some $1 million and pay up some $100,000 in operating deficits

The People's City Mission proposes a $94,955 budget next year, asking $60,304 from United Fund. This is some $17,000 more in United Fund money than the Mission is receiving currently.

Executive Director Jerry Dunn and some board members reminded the budget group that the Mission will need more help if it is to continue providing a new service initiated in 1972

This is the Emergency Family Shelter, operated on the state-owned 84th and Adams property, formerly occupied by the old LARC program.

More Clients

Dunn said there is no doubt the program is needed but 1972 experience showed not by as many as five families daily as Better Lincoln Committee studies indicated in 1971

Although churches and agencies appear to be referring more clients to the Emergency Family Shelter and the downtown City Mission all the time, Pastor Dunn expressed disappointment at the lack of voluntary contributions and other support from these same groups.

He did note there has been increasing support this year from Lancaster County Welfare Dept. for clients, primarily the transient category.

Chamber Sends Support for Trans-Nebraska

The Lincoln Chamber of Commerce has asked the National Transportation Safety Board to allow Trans-Nebraska Airlines to keep its air taxi certificate.

In a letter to hearing examiner Robert Fowler, Chamber of Commerce Transportation Dept Manager John A DuPont said Trans-Nebraska "has corrected the alleged deficiencies and given evidence of future compliance," in urging the safety board to allow the airline's service to be continued.

Lincoln Firm Said Major Source of Poisons

Salt Creek Polluters Identified

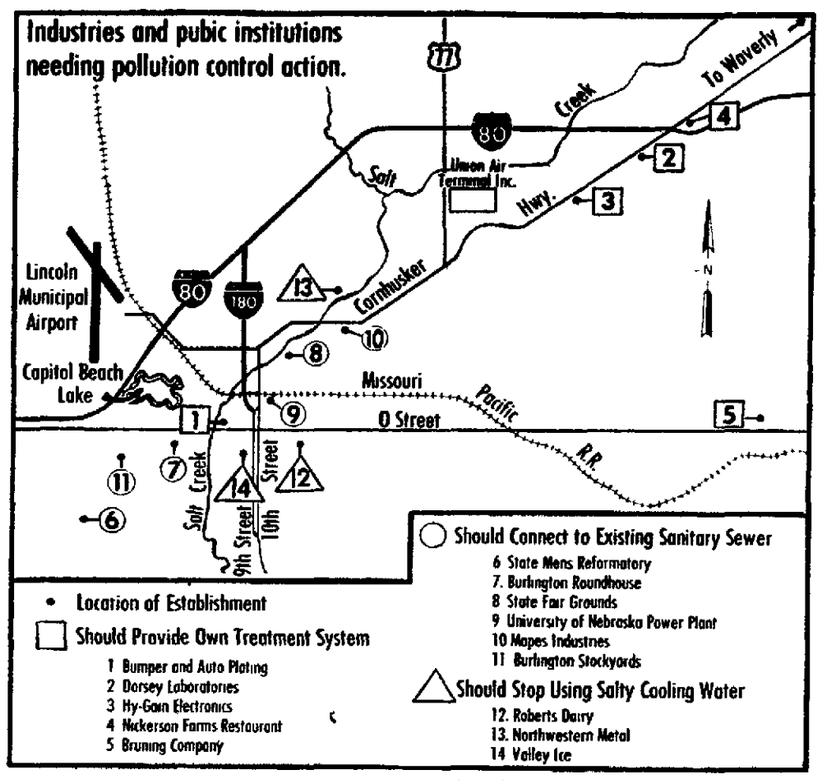
Bumper and Auto Plating Co., 101 West P, has been singled out as the source of the most serious pollutants discharged into the Salt Creek Basin.

The firm has for several years been working with state pollution control authorities to clean up its industrial discharge, but, according to Mrs Sue Hoppel, a sanitary engineer with the state's Natural Resources Commission, the death of a key man at the company set the program back.

As a result, the firm is still discharging cyanide, chrome and heavy metals that are highly poisonous,she said.

While at least six of the 14 area firms and state institutions identified as polluters are able to hook up with the city's sanitary sewer treatment system, Bumper and Auto Plating cannot. Its discharge is so poisonous that it would destroy the bacteria at work in the treatment system.

Four other firms, too far distant and downhill from the city, are also being advised to provide their own treatment systems, according to Mrs. Hoppel. They are Dorsey Laboratories, Hy-Gain Electronics, Nickerson Farms Restaurant and Bruning Co



6 More Identified

Mrs. Hoppel identified another three firms and three state institutions that could solve their discharge problems by connecting to the existing sanitary sewer system. They are the Men's Reformatory, the State Fairgrounds, the University of Nebraska power plant, the Burlington Northern roundhouse, the Burlington Northern Stockyards and Mapes Industries.

In addition, Mrs. Hoppel said, three firms should stop pumping salty cooling water from the ground to treat their waste material. Salt water is a special problem in the Lincoln area, since much of the ground water, ordinarily usable for waste treatment, is salty.

Discharge of the salty water into surface streams ruins them for irrigation purposes, Mrs. Hoppel said. The salt also harms fish and wildlife.

Plants that use salty cooling water are Roberts Dairy, Northwestern Metal and Valley Ice.

These immediate pollution control needs were identified in a recently issued Salt Creek Basin—Lincoln Metropolitan Area Water Quality Management Plan. Prepared over the past 2½ years by the City of Lincoln, the Lower Platte South Natural Resources District and the Nebraska Natural Resources Commission, it has been certified by Gov. J. J. Exon but has not yet been approved by the Lincoln City Council or the Lancaster County Board.

Recommendations Made

The plan recommends, in addition to controlling existing pollution sources, that future pollution from industrial establishments be prevented by locating all new establishments where they can be served by a sanitary sewer and by outlawing most future individual treatment plants.

The cost of treatment, according to the plan, should continue to be allocated among those using the community system, according to the flow and strength that each contributes.

Most of the towns and villages in Lancaster County, according to Mrs. Hoppel, also need to upgrade their treatment systems. In most cases, she said, their systems are at or near capacity and unable to handle the growing demands being made by expanding populations. Some also fail to meet a new disinfectant requirement.

Towns, all of which are trying to meet established standards, are caught in an economic bind. The impoundment of federal funds that would have paid 75% of the treatment cost is delaying efforts, she said.

Waverly, for instance, is at the top of the priority list but is unable to get anticipated funding for its needs.

Other industries in the county, Mrs. Hoppel said, are discharging their waste water into the Lincoln sanitary sewer system and paying the city to treat it.

Ed Programs Will Aid Lincoln Indians

Programs designed to upgrade education for Indians of all ages in Lincoln are being initiated by a steering committee of educators and citizens.

The committee, which includes Indians as well as officials of the Lincoln Public Schools and the Lincoln Technical College, is now in the process of applying for federal funds to finance three separate programs.

The three programs, which will be coordinated by the steering committee, are designed to:

Upgrade tutorial services and Indian-related instructional material for the 250 Indian students in the Lincoln Public Schools The steering committee also sees a need to hire consultants, with expertise in the heritage and traditions of the Indian community, to counsel Indian students and plan instructional programs. The public schools plan to apply for about $21,000 in federal funds to start the program.

Enhance employment and educational opportunities for adult Indians. Lincoln Technical College officials plan to apply for about $20,000 in federal funds, which could provide services for 200 adult Indians.

Initiate educational planning and health education for Lincoln's Indian population. The steering committee is uncertain on the smount it will request for this program.

The committee is hopeful that it can receive some of the $18 million that Congress recently appropriated to improve educational opportunities for the nation's Indians.

Despite the possibility of acquiring federal funds, there is some skepticism in the steering committee. Lee Kills Enemy, committee chairman, called the federal funds inadequate and "a token effort to appease the nation's Indians "

Statehouse Letter

By Dick Herman

Twenty-one weeks and three days ago, the electorate of Nebraska brought forth upon this state a new Legislature, dedicated to the proposition.

Now we are met on the concluding battlefield of the Legislature. We come not so much to bury the dead, bind up the wounds or succor the survivors but render praise for those heroes who merit remembering.

Winner of the 1973 Unicameral Can of Worms Award belongs to that first among equals, Speaker Richard F. Proud of Omaha. Verily, it was he who opened an enormous can of worms. He twisted the lid with his sarcastic, sulfuric and successful campaign to lead Nebraska away from favoring equ7al constitutional rights (and responsibilities) for women. Some of those worms freed in Proud's patch may grow to be of boa constrictor dimensions. For the moment, the Peerless Leader is not worried.

Without rival for the Pandora's Box Trophy of the 83rd Nebraska Legislature, First Session, is that tower of self-proclaimed rectitude and reasonableness, Gov. J. J. Exon. On the April morning Exon advanced upon an unsuspecting Legislature, telling it and the world he had found the way to a huge tax cut, it wasn't just the top of Pandora's Box which opened.

The whole blooming container of worrisome spooks, harpies, sprites, demons and malevolent vapors was splintered. Let loose were the spirits of vengeful action and reaction, of claw and counter-claw. Even Exon subsequently felt some of the sting. He learned the melancholy of six vetoes crushed.

Cliche Citation

The year's final legislative cliche citation must be bestowed on Sen. Duke Snyder of Omaha, a young man of deep voice and firm convictions who underwent a political sex change between January and June. It was Snyder, mark you, who Opened the Flood Gates. That's a piece of mischief against which Sen. Herb Nore of Genoa and his gaggle of Grassroots Dedicated Wise Men have always warned. But Snyder opened the gates. He pioneered with the first of those 11 cash register amendments to the capital construction bill.

Of related attraction on that final-day battlefield was some legislative belief Snyder and Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue should be twin candidates for a different kind of award — a special opprobrium accorded only those who turn the other cheek, once they've got theirs.

Snyder nicely gained his special interest amendment providing the University of Nebraska at Omaha with an artificial surface and new lights for the UNO football field. Financed by state tax dollars, naturally. Then he voted against those with other special interest building desires, people who had assisted Snyder originally.

School teacher Lewis went home with the tasty bacon of higher state tax-provided pensions for school teachers and $20 million more in one-year state aid to schools. Thereupon, he about-faced and voted against overriding the veto of the major school aid bill of the session. Double cross is a term a few furious losers were calling Lewis' interesting performance. His affirmative vote to override would have been enough to change the course of state history. His actual negative vote carved a special niche about Lewis in a couple of Unicameral minds.

Short Takes

—Among the more provocatively-titled cases docketed with the Nebraska Supreme Court last week was an appeal from Gage County: State of Nebraska v. One 1970 Two-Door Rambler Sedan.

—Freshman Sen. John Murphy of South Sioux City summed his initial Unicameral experience as "immensely interesting, far more than I had ever imagined. I only wish I was half as smart as I thought I was when I was elected. State government is vastly more complex than the average Nebraskan realizes."

—Between Legislative Sgt. at Arms Ray Wilson and his assistant W. C. Robinson, there's 111 years of married life. Wilson & wife have been wed for 56 years, Robinson & wife 55 years.

—Lt. Gov. Frank Marsh caused eyebrows to elevate last week when, on statewide public television, he said his state government career of nearly 20 years has been "somewhat honest."

Mobile Home Damaged By Fire

A fire originating in a utility room caused considerable damage Saturday to a mobile home at 2801 N. 26th, according to fire officials.

The home, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Daryl W. King, was rented by Cindie Buhl and Diana Awson. The exact cause of the blaze was unknown. No damage estimate was available.

Miss Awson was the only person home when the fire broke out. She heard a noise in a closet containing a hot water heater and furnace, opened the door and saw two ironing boards on fire. She then turned in the alarm.

When firemen arrived, the trailer was in flames. The fire was under control in about 15 minutes.

Fire Chief C. J. Kadlick said that had the closet door been closed when the fire was first detected the damage might not have been so extensive.

Clothes and a few personal belongings were saved, but almost everything was damaged by smoke and water.

Olympics Host 531 'Champions'

By Betty Stevens

Kearney — When you're standing in the winner's circle, the size of your IQ doesn't matter.

And neither does your coordination or muscle and nerve development.

That's what a lot of happy young people discovered Saturday at the Nebraska Special Olympics held at Kearney State College.

Some 531 kids between the ages of eight and 25 participated in eight different events.

The three top winners in each event won gold, silver and bronze medals with the top five winners getting a special ribbon. Everybody got a certificate for being a participant.

The athletes came from public and private schools, educational service units, and vocational training centers from across the state. All were mentally retarded. Many were multiply handicapped.

But handicaps seems a lot less significant when there's a bleacher full of people to cheer you on, when you can know the good feeling of competition even if you don't come in first, when all the stops have been pulled out to make the day a real Olympic event.

Under the direction of Dennis Champ, the Special Olympics began with a banquet Friday night.

Opening ceremonies included the letting go of a crate of pigeons, the lighting of the torch and raising the flag, the logo of which is an abstract of a child in motion.

After the ceremonies, a live combo provided music to dance by.

But Saturday was what they all came for. "They're all champs," Champ said, "Because they've all overcome tremendous handicaps to participate."

Like Donna Packer, 19, a resident of Martin Luther Home, Beatrice. She won two gold medals in swimming for the 25-yard free-style and 25-yard backstroke

"I drank a lot of water on that backstroke." Donna laughed.

Someone had told Donna her medals were hanging around her neck on red, white and blue ribbons. They had to tell her because in addition to being retarded, Donna is blind.

"If I don't use them for ribbons," Donna said feeling their silky texture, "I'll hang them with my Sunday dress."

Special Olympics were started nationally in 1968. They began in Nebraska in 1970 Every two years winners go on to a regional meet and every four years, regional winners participate in an international meet.

Champ hopes Lincoln can host the regional meet in 1974. In the meantime he's planning to start wrestling and bowling competiton. The first basketball tournament for the retarded was held last March in BEatrice.

"Physical education and recreation are extremely important to the retarded," Champ said. "It gives them a sense of achievement, a chance to finish what they've started, a chance to be winners instead of losers — for some, the very first time."

In spite of handicaps several participants come close to a "normal" performance. Lincolnite Kenny Hosek scored nine feet in the standing long jump; Ron Clark, Beatrice, ran the 300 yard dash in 36 seconds and a number of kids ran the 50 yard dash in six seconds.

Nationally, three retarded persons are being groomed for the 1976 Olympics in Montreal, Canada.

"In some way, everybody wins here." Champ said.

But then winning can be a relative thing for some. When Mark Roy, 11, Columbus, went up to the starting line his mother, Mrs. Larry Roy said, "Run fast so you win a blue ribbon."

"Uh-uh," Mark said. "I think red's a prettier color."

A feature event of the olympics was the pentathlon, which consists of the standing long jump, 50-yard dash, softball throw, high jump and 300-yard run.

Division winners in the pentathlon were: girls 13-15, Cindy Weisham, Fairbury; boys 13-15, Steve Nash, Plattsmouth; girls 16-18, Debby Potter, Beatrice; boys 16-18, Ron Clark, Beatrice; girls over 19, Gerolyn Went, Columbus; and boys over 19, Corwin Bean, Lincoln.

Top marks were turned in by David King of Omaha, with a 163-5 toss in the boys 13-15 softball; Charles Catlett, Lincoln, 195-5 in the over 19 softball throw; and Terry Pierce of Omaha, who was clocked at :38.8 in the 16-18 300-yard run.

Omaha — Felix Beda received a rare treat at Ak-Sar-Beñ Saturday — he presented himself with the winning trophy.

Beda, president of the Nebraska Thoroughbred Breeders Association, saw his Nebraska Harvest score a five-length triumph over 12 foes in the $21,800 Breeders' Sprint Stakes on a track rated as muddy.

"That's the first time I've won a stakes race at Ak-Sar-Ben," the veteran Nebraska horseman said. "That's the greatest thrill I've ever had I bred the horse, raised him and now I've watched him win the biggest race I've ever won."

Although Beda said Nebraska Harvest possessed more speed for the first half-mile than any horse on the grounds, he was worried about the track condition and if Nebraska Harvest had enough 'staying power.'

"I would have rather had the slop on the track than the mud," Beda said. "This track dries so fast and I thought the slop wouldn't have tired him out so much.

"I don't know why he stops when it hits the eighth-pole. But today Don (jockey Don Lewis) got him in front and saved the horse from the eighth-pole on."

Although Tami Jo Van broke on top in the 13-horse field going 6 furlongs, she soon faded and Nebraska Harvest, always on the front at the beginning soon took command. He pulled away to a three-length margin around the turn and into the stretch before increasing his advantage at the wire.

The 6-5 favorite of the crowd of 22,384, Wooden Marine, was in contention untion until the stretch run when she tired and finished last.

"I've been giving away Breeders' Sprint Trophies for the last five years or so at every track," Beda said. "But today was the greatest thrill I've had."

Although jockey Burl McBride had ridden Nebraska Harvest the last two races, he decided to stay with John McCormack's Wooden Marine.

"It was only natural that he (McBride) would go with Wooden Marine since she had won her last three in a row," Beda said. "We had no alternative but to go with Don Lewis. He won for me last year on Real Chance "

The victory, worth $11,990 to Beda, hiked Nebraska Harvest's 1973 earnings to $15,598 on one victory, one place and one show in five outings. It was only his second lifetime triumph in nine appearances.

Maya Commander, who came on strong in the late running after breaking fifth, finished five lengths in front of Gem D. H. for the place spot

Nebraska Harvest returned $33 40, $13 40 and $8 20 while Maye Commander placed for $8 40 and $5 60. Gem D. H 's show was worth $8.80.

Wayne Davidson's Wind 'N Sage, second favored at almost 6-1, was never in contention and finished seventh.

For Lewis it was his second consecutive stakes triumph at Ak-Sar-Ben. He won Friday's Lady Sponsors' Stakes aboard Thirty One Jewels ($5.20).

"I can't recall if I've ever done that (win two straight stakes races) before," Lewis said "He broke real good today and I just tried to sit on him and save him as much as possible for the stretch run.

Greeno Generated Wesleyan Track

Lincoln Northeast athlete's best jump in high school was 6-6, only Woody tried to recruit him.

When Kurt started at NWU, Greeno got him on a weight program to build his strength and it is that weight program that Nielsen credits for the main reason for his improved efforts

"Woody not only is not only responsible for my improved techniques, but also for my mental attitude whih is so important in high jumping," the all-American high jumper says

"Woody treats all his athletes as men and makes track fun, which can get to be a real grind since the sport lasts five months with indoor and outdoor seasons "

Greeno insists on everyone calling him Woody, including his athletes as well as his students.

Woody is one of six brothers, who all coached at one time Joe, who had many good Kearney track teams and Leton, who coached and still teaches at Leola, S C , are two of Woody's brothers who are retired from coaching

Rollie is the football and track coach and athletic director at Jamestown, N D College, Rich is the track coach at Sioux Falls, S D , Lincoln High School and Ken is the athletic director and track coach at Redfield, S D

Woody attended grade school and was graduated from Amherst, S D , High School in 1932 He received his B A. from Yankton S D in 1937, B S from South Dakota State University in 1946 and M Ed from Minnesota in 1950

After coaching and teaching at Volga, Kimball and Gregory, S.D., High Schools from 1937-41, Woody served in the infantry from 1942-45 in Morocco, Algeria, Tunisia, England, Scotland, France, Belgium, Germany and Holland.

In the 1945-46 school year Woody coached and taught at Milbank, S D , High School and at Huron, S D , High School from 1946-50

Woody married Majorie Westby in 1950 and they have three children—Joan a stepdaughter who lives in Washington, D C , Jean who was just graduated from NWU and Ron who will be a junior

From 1950-55 Greeno was the track coach at Midland College and came to NWU in his present capacity in 1955 "We had a pretty sorry track program when Woody came," Dr Irv Peterson says

Peterson is the head of the physical education department at NWU , a two-time winner of the Sunday Journal and Star State College Coach of the Year award and mainly responsible for bringing Greeno to NWU

In Woody s first year he brought the track team from last to first and since then has seen not only that we have a good athletic program, but also that the kids graduate and get jobs," Peterson notes

Weiskopf Leads Kemper

Charlotte, N C. (AP) — Streaking Tom Weiskopf rode a string of three birdies to a third-round 68 and a two-stroke lead Saturday in the $200,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament.

Weiskopf, who has finished 12 in his two previous starts, had a 54-hole total of 203, 13 under par on the hot and muggy, 7,219-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course

Veteran Ken Still and the youthful Lanny Wadkins matched one-under-par 71s and were tied for second at 205 going into Sunday's final round in the chase for a $40,000 first prize.

Four players, including second-round leader Leonard Thompson, were one more stroke back at 206. Also at that figure were former Masters champion Charles Coody, Memphis winner Dave Hill, and Cesar Senudo

Senudo had the day's best round with a 66 Hill had a 67, Coody 70 and Thompson slipped to a one-over-par 73

Lee Trevino and Arnold Palmer each had a 71 and remained well back in the pack, Trevino at 210 and Palmer nine strokes off the lead at 212.

Defending champion Doug Sanders had to withdraw because of illness.

At one time, during the hot afternoon, Thompson, Wadkins, Still and Weiskopf all shared the lead at 11-under-par

Big Tom solved that problem with a string of three consecutive birdies beginning on the 14th hole

He wedged to 15 feet there and sank the putt. Another 15footer on the next hole also went in for a birdie. He followed that with a punched wedge only two feet from the hole.

It appeared as if he might take a three-stroke lead but made his only bogey of the day on the 18th when he hit a flyer out of the rough, missed the green, and failed on a five-foot putt.

helps to have some strong moral support and Kurt has that at almost every meet.

Kurt's parents, Clem and Elinor, sister Frankie, identical twin brother Chris and girl friend Marcie Norseen rarely miss a meet. Kurt also has an older married sister, Mrs. Judi Boe of Bloomfield.

One of Kurt's biggest boosters is Chris, who is also on the NWU track team as a high and long jumper and is four minutes older than Kurt.

"I get more nervous than Kurt does when he gets ready to jump," Chris admits. "We cheer for each other all the time and it helps."

Kurt is quick to agree with his brother. "When I had a bad jump at 7-0 at the conference meet, Chris was able to tell me just exactly what I did wrong and I knew it was a bad jump, but seeing and feeling a bad jump are two different things," Kurt says.

"We have a good relationship and he has helped me both as a supporter and competitor."

After completing high school, only Greeno tried to recruit Kurt and Chris. "We were going to go to Nebraska, but Woody convinced us to go to Wesleyan," Kurt recalls.

Although he does use the roll, Kurt has tried the Fosbury flop. "Two summers ago I was really having trouble with the roll, so I tried the Fosbury," Kurt says.

"I made 6-9 flopping, but then I switched back to the roll the same day and that was the first time I cleared 7-0."

Although the Olympics are three years off, Kurt admits he's had the games in the back of his mind. "Right now my goal is to be more consist at making 7-0 or better every time I jump and just take one meet at a time," he says.

"And maybe in three years I'll be good enough to try out for the Olympics."

I May Be Wrong

By Virgil Parker
Sunday Sports Columnist

Before that round of golf this morning, have you ever wondered what the odds are that you'll score an elusive hole-in-one.

The Las Vegas oddsmakers say it's a lot tougher than bowling a perfect 300 or for a major leaguer to pitch a no-hitter.

On a normal par three, a pricemaker will give you 10,000-to-1 from now until Halloween. They say the price on bowling a 300 game is about 6,000-to-1.

Despite the fact that when Nolan Ryan of the California Angels no-hit the Kansas City Royals the other day he became just the 74th in American League history, dating back to 1901, the odds are not as great.

Twenty-four major league teams play 162 games each season. Thus a total of 3,888 opportunities come up each year for a no-hitter. Over the last 71 seasons, an average of two-a-season has been achieved. That's about 2,000-to-1.

Good luck on the links. But don't be discouraged by a bogey four. They're more common than the hole-in-one.

Time For Reflection

The insanity called the Indy 500 auto race needs some examination! After another running which took two lives and left another pair in critical condition in the hospital, the event (as a sport) needs a long, hard look.

Why do 300,000 people sit in the rain (or more often the boiling sun) to watch? And why do we (and other media) give so much publicity to a sport which takes men's lives?

If the only reason for the existence of the event is so a lot of people can get a first-hand, close-up view of death and destruction, we might as well return to throwing people in the arena with the lions.

There are those who say that the Indy is okay because the drivers know the dangers they face. As long as there are machines to drive, these men (or others like them) will be willing.

Even pole sitter Johnny Rutherford was quoted as saying, after Art Pollard's death, "He was doing what he wanted to do in life. And how many men can say such a thing? Remember, nobody makes us get into these cars. Nobody puts a gun to our head and says, 'Drive'. We do it because we love it."

Second Thoughts

But, now even Andy Granatelli, who owned the car Gordon Johncock drove to victory, says his team will pull out of the Indy race next year unless there are changes.

Granatelli feels the cars are going faster than the present tracks and drivers can safely handle. Johncock agrees. "Speed at a race track is fine," he says, "but it's so fast now that the drivers simply cannot handle the tremendous speed in times of crises."

Here's one vote to return big time auto racing to a sport instead of a display of public suicide.

Closing on a more pleasant note. While the image of the Indy race has changed over the years, so maybe will the image of 'bad guy' Charlie Finley, the Oakland A's baseball owner.

Sal Bando, the A's captain, says that he and other players had the World series ring appraised that Finley gave them after winning last fall.

"It wasn't that we were greedy," he claims. "It was for insurance purposes. Mr. Finley told us they cost $1,500 wholesale but would be $2,500 retail. Every one of us got a jewelry appraisal. And they were all the same. $3,500!"

Monzon Retains Crown

MONTE CARLO, Monaco (UPI) — Carlos Monzon of Argentina retained his world middleweight boxing crown for the sixth time Saturday with a close but unanimous 15-round decision over Emile Griffith of New York.

For the 35-year-old Griffith, who held the middleweight title twice and the welterweight crown three times, it was a second unsuccessful bid to take the title from the Argentinian, who beat him in 14 rounds in Buenos Aires in 1971.

Griffith used his 18 years experience and appeared to lead the title-holder going into the 10th round. But he then tired rapidly, allowing Monzon to score the vital points he needed in the later rounds. There were no knockdowns.

Referee Pierrot Brambilla of Italy scored the fight 147 to 145 for Monzon and Judges Raymond Balderau of France and Karl Berteet of West Germany had it 147-143 and 147-144 for the South American.

Rick Wins

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Rick Wohlhuter of the Chicago Track Club failed to break Jim Ryun's world record in the mile Saturday but flashed to victory in the U.S. Track and Field Federation championships with an eye-catching time of three minutes, 58 seconds.

Only recently Wohlhuter shattered Ryun's 1:44.9 world record in the 880 with 1:44.6. He said Friday he was passing up an invitation to compete in a special 880-yard run against Dave Wottle to shoot for quality in the mile.

Wottle, of Bowling Green, coming from far back on the outside with an awesome burst of speed, overhauled Skip Kent of Wisconsin with 30 yards to go and won the special 880 in 1:47.5.

Feuerbach won the USTFF title at Wichita, Kan., Friday night with a throw of 69-9 ¼.

Rod Milburn, the world record holder in the high hurdles, also was a double winner in less than 24 hours. Friday night he won the 120 highs at the college division championships at Crawfordsville, Ind., in 13.1. In the Kennedy Games, he took the highs in a little slower 13.4.

prised at the way we dominated after the two close regular season games.

"I'm sure East High was just as surprised," added Johnson. "I could feel it right at the tipoff, but I couldn't believe it, even at halftime. If I knew what caused something like that, Northeast would go unbeaten every year."

Tom Westover, Northeast's skinny all-stater with deadly long-range shooting ability akin to previous Rocket standouts Jan Wall, Wayne Hester, Jerry Motz and Rudy Stoehr, can't pinpoint the reason for the rout, either.

But he remembers what led up to it and credits his coach for the outcome.

"He really gave us a talk that day," recalls Westover. "We practiced that morning and everybody got psyched up. It was really something. I can't even remember what coach Johnson said, but it had spirit and carried over."

Westover claims a "little trick in coaching" accomplished the win over East.

"The second game against East coach Johnson was just experimenting," according to Westover. "We tried a different offense and a matchup zone defense we had never used before

"Then, at district, we broke Terry (Novak) loose 1-on-1 for the first time of the season," recalls Westover. "I don't know if coach Johnson had been saving it or not, but we sure needed it then."

Westover believes Johnson is a successful coach "because he's such a disciplinarian. He emphasizes it all the time. If he tells you to get a haircut, you get one . . . although he is getting a little more lenient every year."

Senior Rocket teammate Bruce Maske, who has a football scholarship to Nebraska, experienced both awe and respect for Johnson.

"Just looking at him scared me. I didn't really feel comfortable until my senior year," related Maske, who says Johnson "isn't an ogre, but more like a big bear.

"Rumors about how tough he is fly like crazy at Robin Mickel and Dawes Junior High," claims Maske. "In the summer when we were in junior high, we would go over to Northeast and sit around and listen to the athletes talk about coach Johnson.

"Some of the stories are funny that time of the year, but every athlete telling them has nothing but complete respect for coach Johnson and the way he does things," adds Maske.

"Practices can get pretty monotonous," according to Maske, "because we start on fundamentals the first day and never quit practicing them. It looks easy, but you keep doing it.

"And," adds Maske, "when you go out to practice you go out there with the idea of work. Unlike other sports, there's never any goofing around. Not unless coach starts it anyway. There's no hot-dogging like dribbling behind your back. That just means more laps than you already have to run. I lost 10 pounds during basketball season. And it wasn't because I got a hair cut. It was conditioning."

There's a multitude of reasons why Johnson has been able to win 338 games and lose only 116 at Northeast. Defense is one big reason. But so is the unselfish offensive attitude typical of Johnson-coached teams.

"I think this last year's team would have let Westy (Westover) about every shot. They were that unselfish. They played well together. Togetherness is a big word in our vocabulary," says Johnson.

Named earlier this spring the recipient of the first annual Ralph Beechner Coach of the Year award, Johnson lettered four years in basketball at Northeast Missouri State in Maryville.

It was there that he played under coach Sparky Stalcup and was named co-captain of what is now the NAIA all-American team. Johnson went on to earn his master's degree at Missouri in Columbia, serving as an assistant coach under Stalcup.

Prep coaching stints in Lewis and Corning, Iowa, also preceded his 24-year allegiance to Northeast. Two years ago, Johnson was recognized by the National High School Coaches Assn. in Atlanta as its District 7 Coach of the Year.

For Johnson, the honors are becoming a familiar event.

For Northeast, however, it's a yearly ritual. Players, parents and fans have always thought of him as their Coach of the Year.

Gal's Golf Lead Shared by Trio

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Bonnie Bryant, only lefthander on the women's pro golf tour, shot a 71 Saturday and was tied with Kathy Cornelius and Sandra Haynie for the second-round lead in the rain-shortened $100,000 Sealy-Faberger Ladies' Golf Classic.

Miss Bryant was four under par through 14 holes but bogeyed two of the last four holes to fall back into the three-way tie.

The three golfers each totaled 143 after 36 holes on the par 73, 6225-yard Desert Inn Country Club course.

Only one stroke back in the LPGA event, shortened to 54 holes after Thursday's opening round was washed out by rain, was defending champion Betty Burfeindt Tied at 145 were Donna Caponi Young, Chako Higuchi, Judy Rankin, Carol Mann and first-round leader Mary Mills.

At even-par 146 were Judy Kimball and Betsy Rawls.

The $100,000 tournament concludes Sunday with the field of 56 professionals playing the final round with a celebrity-filled pro-am field. The winner gets $25,000 and a new car

Nebraska Fans Renew Tickets

METRO-AREA

If season ticket renewals are any criteria, Bob Devaney's departure from the active coaching role has not resulted in any decline in Big Red football fever.

According to Jim Pittenger, Athletic Ticket Manager, all available football season tickets were sold in 1972 and less than one-half of one per cent of last year's season ticket holders failed to renew for 1973.

As a result, Pittenger said, no new 1973 football season tickets will be available for public sale and the Athletic Ticket Office will not be accepting new requests for season tickets.

As in the past, a limited number of tickets will be available on a single game basis Pittenger said this number will vary from game to game depending on the number of tickets purchased by the visiting team, the student sale, the number allocated to Nebraska when the Huskers are on the road, etc.

The Ticket Office will begin accepting orders for single game tickets for both home and away games on June 15.

Pittenger requests that orders be handled by mail rather than in person and notes that telephone orders will not be accepted. He said all orders will be handled in accordance with the postmark of the order and all orders must be accompanied by payment for the requested tickets, although receipt of the check does not guarantee the fan that his request will be filled. Checks will be returned on all unfilled requests.

With the exception of the Oklahama game, all tickets will be $7 per game. Oklahoma tickets are priced at $7.25 each Orders for tickets should be accompanied by a separate check for each game and 50 cents should be added to each order to cover cost of handling and postage.

Pittenger said requests for the Missouri game at Columbia on Oct. 13 will be limited to four tickets per customer. He said the Missouri game will be the student migration and a block of tickets will be allocated for students.

"It is our hope," Pittenger said, "that the delayed date for accepting ticket requests will better enable us to advise people ahead of time as to whether they will be receiving tickets.

Fairview Ready For Summer Tours

National attention focused on William Jennings Bryan and Fairview, his Lincoln home from 1902-1917, in Alistair Cooke's television documentary "America" reported Anne Sidles, president, at the second annual meeting of Friends of Fairview, Inc.

Fairview, 4900 Sumner Street, is open for summer tours from 1 to 4 p.m. Thursday through Sunday.

Formed last year to preserve the historic home of Nebraska's first Democratic congressman and three-time presidential candidate, Friends of Fairview are again seeking broad community involvement through a campaign for members and volunteers.

William Jennings Bryan, Jr., is an honorary board member. Reelected officers at the annual meeting were Mmes Frank Sidles, president, Stephen Carveth, vice president; George Ernst, secretary; James Rawley, treasurer.

Elected to the board of directors were Mrs. Henry Burton, tours chairman, Mrs Lee Bingham, special events chairman, Mrs. Curtis Kimball, nominating chairman, and Mrs Gates Minnick, membership chairman; Prof Fred Luebke, Dr. Norman Cormwell, and Maurice Hevalone of Beatrice Advisors to the board are Gene Edwards, administrator of Bryan Memorial Hospital, and Marvin Kivett, director of Nebraska State Historical Society.

The cooperative efforts of these groups plus the Junior League of Lincoln were instrumental in 1962 in restoring Bryan's home and having it listed as a registered national historic landmark Bryan is noted for his 1896 "Cross of Gold" speech and his role as prosecutor in the Scopes trial just before his death in 1925.

On their way to the Mrs. Jaycee's annual Inaugural Ball, held Saturday evening, are Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Malone. Mrs. Malone is the organization's new president.

Status of Women Reunion Held

"Women of Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow" was the theme of the reunion conference of the Governor's Commission on the Status of Women. The conference was held Saturday in Lincoln.

Present and former commission members from throughout Nebraska attended the reunion, which was highlighted by three speakers representing three generations of women.

Former State Senator Florence Reynolds discussed "Women of Yesterday." She noted that the women of yesterday "laid the foundation for the types of homes you and I are priviledged to live in today."

"Our foremothers typified all of the ideals of pure womanhood," she said. "They were pure women interested 100% in their homes and their families."

Miss Reynolds added that the women of yesterday had two important attributes — courage and a simple faith in God.

Women Today

In talking about "Women of Today," Dr. Anne Campbell, director of public affairs for the University of Nebraska, said that the essential element in the women's liberation movement is the right to choose one's own lifestyle.

"We must go about gaining equality and justice for women," she stated, "and we must renew our efforts to gain equal status for women."

Dr. Campbell also said "it's time for us to stop apologizing for being women. I hope we've hit the peak of the emotional level of the woman's liberation movement."

Women Tomorrow

Discussing "Women of Tomorrow" was Jan Rasmussen, a current member of the commission. She predicted that in the future more women will enter the labor force and that of those women more will be in the professions and management.

She also said she sees an increase in the number of adoptions by single persons and added that "in the future we will see more cooperative facilities for raising children.

"I hope," she said, "that in the future women will be accepted for who they are and what they are."

At the commission's business meeting Mrs. Robert Lute of Ogallala was appointed chairman of the newly formed Alumni Association Committee. Committee members are Miss Reynolds, Mrs. J. Calvin Davis of Omaha, and Miss Dorothy Thorngate of Lincoln.

Diary

by Helen Haggie

A tiny tot, aged 3, had spent the night with her grandparents whose home is across the street from her parents.

Rising early, the youngsters decided to go home and get dressed. She, however, had taken off her pajamas before she set out.

Her mother saw her coming and rushed out.

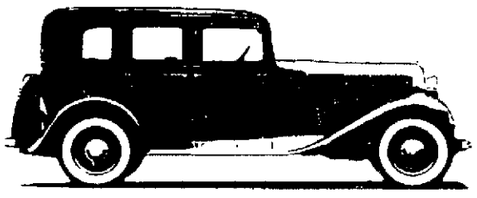
"Kathy, you shouldn't do this," said mother as the nude child came up the walk.

"But mommy, I looked both ways," little innocent replied.

About Rain

Mrs DeWitt Barber, known to many people as Irene, sent along this poem. She said she wrote it for her own little book in June, 1935, and came across it last weekend when the rains came.

She added a note that some people today might not know that cars were called "flivvers" and clothing "duds" in those days. The piece was written at the time of the Republican River Flood.



Did you ever see it rain when you thought it couldn't stop?
Well, I did!
Did you see the clouds wide open and all the water drop?
Well, I did!
When the streets became real rivers
And the rivers turned out floods.
And your homes were gone, and "Flivers,"
And your pigs and cows and "duds."
Even lives were lost by hundreds,
And still the water came.
And the skies would roll with thunder,
And you knew it still would rain.
When we prayed for rain out yonder where the drouth had been so bad,
We didn't think or stop to ponder how much moisture could be had.
There's only One who knows the reason.
He sends happiness and pain.
He sends sunshine, and this Season
He sent a great deal too much rain.

Mansion Open For Tours in Summer

that recently 191 Keith County school children visited the mansion in a single day.

One of the most recent additions to the mansion's furnishings is the square grand piano in teakwood. It was willed to the historical society by Arthur Dressler.

Most of the beds have lovely patchwork quilts as spreads. "We've tried to do the furnishing as nearly authentically as possible," Mrs. Geisert said.

The floral carpeting on the main floor rooms is a replica of carpeting of the time. For the lover of antiques, the mansion is great. The bedroom sets — one which belonged to the town's first saloon keeper — are handsome.

On the back porch is a jeweler's desk which belonged to Robert Goodall. The jeweler's tools are displayed in a glass case nearby. Mrs. Goodall gave $15,000 to the society for the mansion.

At the time of the mansion's purchase by the society, Mr. Geisert was president of the organization. He is head of the tour guides which volunteer their time during the day.

Mr. Geisert has a special interest in the house, his wife said. When he was a youngster he came into Ogallala to go to high school and lived in the house with the Charles Overstreet family.

When his mother, Mrs. August Geisert, was a young girl whe worked in an Ogallala home and according to Mrs. E. A. Geisert, the older Mrs. Geisert has told about cowboys riding into town the year the mansion was built — not only into town, but right into the saloons.

The mansion is open daily except Mondays during the summer months.

World of Women

It Might Have Been When . .

By Linda Ulrich

It's hard to say when Vi Kuhl's insurance agency really began.

It might have been when she was 12 and her mother got her a job working in a drugstore rather than having her help with the housework.

It might have been when she was the only woman in college insurance class of 28 and the professor good-naturedly used her as the common denominator, saying, "If Vi understands this, everyone should."

It might have been when Vi was working for a large insurance company and she had to repeatedly ask to take the insurance classes that were readily available to men.

It might have been when her husband was contemplating investing in an apartment building and she asked, "Instead of investing in a duplex, why not invest in me?"

But probably, the idea first began when Vi was still working as a general correspondent for the insurance firm.

It was then she realized that although she had been promoted to her title after being a file clerk for a year, being a general correspondent was the top position for women in that company then.

She stayed with the company for 9½ years and always signed her name V. J. Kuhl.

Vi did that because "I feared my credibility would be questioned otherwise . . . it's a feeling of inadequacy that's built into many women; a feeling that it's me, not the fact that I'm a woman, that keeps me from moving up."

The name game was up when one day an angry man walked into the building demanding to see "Vernon Kuhl" and threatening to "knock his block off."

Fortunately for Vi, he didn't, and last February, she became an independent insurance agent.

After an extremely brief stint as a real estate agent, she became manager of the insurance agency within the real estate firm that she had worked for and then assumed ownership of the business.

She handles all kinds of insurance but specializes in helping people who are not so easily placed to obtain auto insurance.

Vi is the first to admit that having your own firm is a mixture of headaches and happiness — and often 10-hour days. "I worry when the phone's too quiet and I worry when it rings too much." But, she maintains, "being on my own is the best thing I ever did."

She likes her business because she likes insurance: "It gets to the point where you don't know anything else." But Vi doesn't consider herself to be a salesperson — "I'm just one human being acting for another."

One of the advantages of being a businesswoman, she said, is that she can take time to help people. "Often men are so gung-ho about making a living and getting that commission that they don't have time to care about the people they're working with," Vi observed. "I want to make money too but it doesn't have to be number one with me because my husband earns a salary too."

Her husband, John, she proudly adds, "is my strongest supporter." She admits that during the first four years of marriage he was bothered by the fact that she wanted a career outside the home. "But the adjustment was made once he really realized that I'm a much happier person when I'm doing more than being a homemaker.

"All of our friends know that he's a better cook than I am," she said with a smile. "And he helps with the housekeeping too."

The Kuhls have a daughter, 20. A past chairman of the business division of the United Fund campaign, she currently is on the board of directors and a member of the budget committee. Vi also is a member of the Nebraska Association of Insurance Agents.

She enjoys painting and playing bridge.

New Look for Boxy Bedroom

By Emily Malino

I too like to look at photos of beautiful bedrooms with cozy sleeping alcoves or grand and glorious platforms or interesting shapes that in themselves make a room look special

But all too often I see the same box-like bedrooms without a flicker of architectural ingenuity The bed must go here, the bureaus there and a chair if you re lucky over yonder

Well, it's about time we decided that if we can't change the shape of space we can at least change our way of fitting into it and the master bedroom is a good place to begin.

Take the typical box of today It has one wall of closets, one wall with holes punched into it for windows, one wall with a door and a small space for a bureau, and a fourth wall that is plain

Instead of the usual cop-out — placing the bed against the number four wall — I planked it in space, free-standing To give it status (i e a place to stand) I postered it with four four-by-fours, painted white A frame to enclose the box-spring and support the mattress was made with one-by-eight stock lumber with cross bracing of one-by-fours at regular one-foot intervals under the boxspring

To emphasize the verticality of the space, I framed the windows with stock four-by-fours, between which I hung the new mirrored, mini-slat, vertical blinds. And to support the floating feeling of the bed, I ordered mirror cut into 16-inch rounds which I used to polka-dot the No. 4 wall from one end to the other in a giant pattern of reflecting spheres.

I used navy blue walls to contrast with the white woodwork and an off-white simple wall-to-wall carpet that pushes the walls back and seems to create additional floor space for the bed itself

If you prefer light walls, the whole scheme could be translated into a natural treatment, by leaving the post and frames natural or staining them dark, painting the walls white and using a deep charcoal grey shag on the floor

Surrounding my poster bed are plexi pedestals to support plants, brass floor lamps with flexible arms for good reading, white plastic tables easily moved to hold a radio and TV or books or a cup of tea.

And the spread a random wave in navy blue off-white and purple brings the colors together in this box that we have translated from a bedroom into a room for a bed — a proper transition in any home

Quotable Quotes

Here are some quotable quotes from women during the week

"I hate those inevitable 'favorite' questions, all geared to the past. Like 'what was your favorite role, who is your favorite star'. After a while I found myself making up different, conflicting answers to them." Actress Ginger Rogers.

"I think there has been innuendo, hearsay, unproven charges But I think the American people can sort out the facts from the fiction." Anne Legendre Armstrong, counselor to the President, speaking about Watergate.

"It still has to be decided because with a family such as ours, we have public engagements months before." Princess Anne, on the setting of her wedding date

"New York City has given me so much, including life, and I want to thank New York and all of you who came out here for letting me come back and give a little something back." Singer-songwriter Carole King speaking to an estimated 70,000 persons at a free concert she gave in Central Park

"I visit national corporations, work with consumer groups and try to establish new programs and consumer councils in cities across the nation. And I make speeches, always. I try to explain some of the things business must do to restore consumer confidence." Bette Clemens, director of consumer affairs for the council of Better Business Bureaus, Inc.

Swedish Consumer Gets Better Break

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are so mad we could chew nails. We bought a new car 17 months ago. It cost us a lot more money than we had a right to pay, but we decided it would be cheaper than a second-hand model in the long run. We've had that new car in the garage three times since January. The last repair bill was $45. Please don't tell us to take it back to the dealer We tried. He isn't interested in complaints. Just trades or sales What can we do? Will the customer EVER get a break when it comes to car repairs?

Squeezed By A Lemon

Dear Squeezed: Contact the Better Business Bureau and give them chapter and verse. They do a splendid job of making people straighten up and fly right. Let's hope that one day we Americans will get the same break the consumer gets in Sweden. Garages must guarantee all repair work for 3,125 miles or three months — whichever comes first. Wouldn't that be beautiful?

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 27, have never been married, but have been through a lot. A year ago I met Jack, age 35, divorced and the father of five children. The last two years of their marriage Jack's wife was sleeping with her boss When she asked for a divorce, Jack assumed the boss was going to leave his family and marry her, so he agreed He felt he had no choice

I was sure that when Jack was free he would marry me, but I was wrong. Four months after the divorce Jack's wife called him to say things didn't work out and she wants him to come home. So now he tells me they are going to be remarried because he misses his kids and he wants to be back in the good graces of his church. What kind of church will let a rat like that back in? What do I do next?

Damned Phool in Pensacola

Dear DP: Probably Catholic — which does not recognize divorce. In the eyes of the church Jack and his wife were never anything but married. As for what do you do next: For openers, take a pledge not to get mixed up with any more married men.

Dear Ann Landers: I was married 24 years ago and had five children in seven years I worked hard under trying circumstances, including the last six years when my husband and I agreed on a separation We were divoced last May

Our children are all launched and I am now involved in a fascinating career My work puts me in contact with many men, most of whom I find chauvinistic, dull, a little sick and painfully boring.

Last fall I met the man I wish I had met 25 years ago. He is everything I've ever wanted in a husband. I think about him at least three dozen times a day. I tried ignoring him but it didn't work. He is 36 years old, beautifully attentive and insists I'm going to be his wife.

When I asked him why he never married he said, "I've been waiting for you, angel."

I adore being free and am thoroughly immersed in my career I've had the marriage and family bit and I don't believe a woman can do justice to both at the same time. But the guy is a gem. I don't know what to do. What's your best hunch?

Lone Star Louise

Dear Louise: My huncher is on the bum but my computer is in good working order. According to my figures, 25 years ago "The Gem" was 11 years old. If this doesn't make any difference to you, and it doesn't matter to him, it's all right with me.

Healthy Diets

New York (UPI) — Can you kill or hurt yourself by taking up a vegetarian diet? Or by becoming a vegan — a person who eats neither meat, fowl, eggs, milk products nor fish Or — by becoming lacto-vegetarians, those who drink milk and eat butter and cheese?

The "Medical Letter" addressed itself to the question and came to the conclusion that if patients adopt vegetarian diets, physicians can help them to protect their health by prescribing vitamin B12 and encouraging them to drink milk or eat cheese.

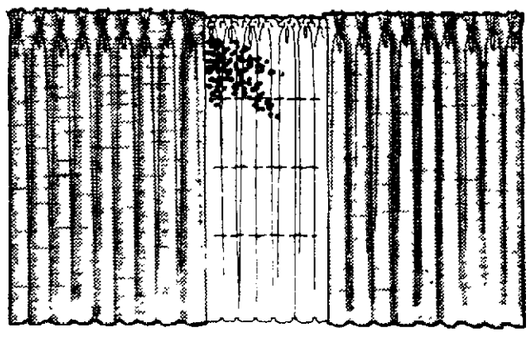
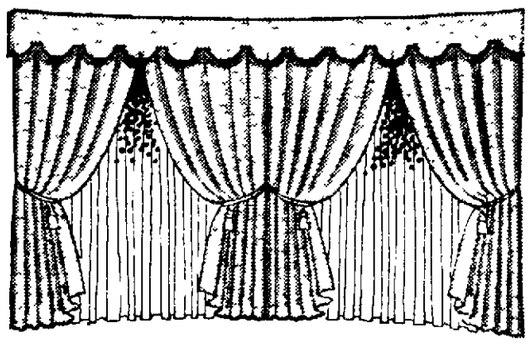
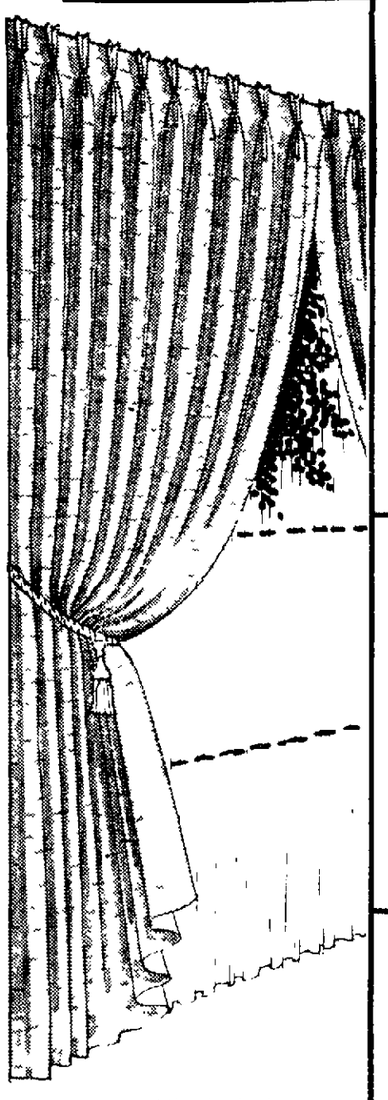
Color-coordinate with custom sheers of Dacron® polyester.



Set the mood of a room with a simple cornice style. Here, an exotic feeling is heightened by the use of a tropically colored antique satin of spun rayon and acetate. Flanking a color-coordinated Dacron® polyester sheer.

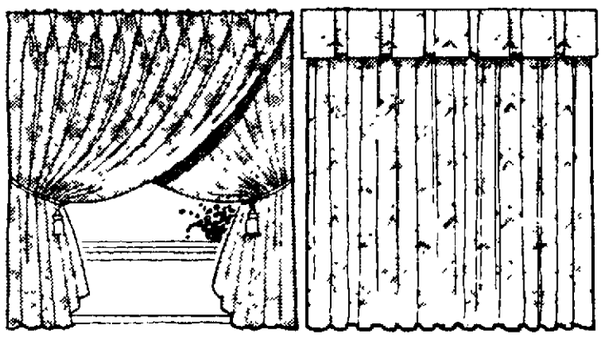


All dressed up in a jacquard-woven damask of rayon and acetate. The scalloped cornice dramatizes a bay window, making it seem even more expansive. For a more private look, cafe curtains in the same rayon and acetate fabric may be added.



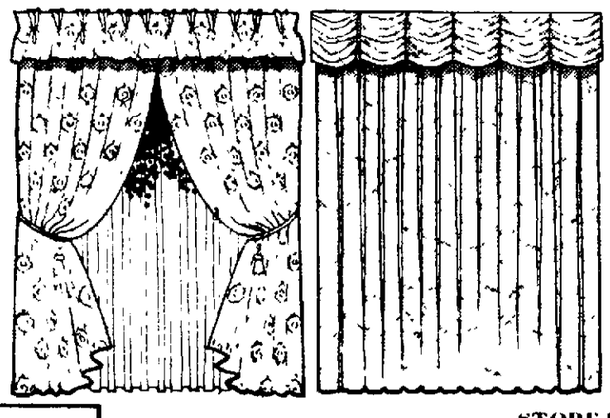
Versatility That's the beauty of our antique satin fabrics Like Imperial Satinn shown here The elegant viscos rayon and acetate is color-coordinated with the Dacron® polyester sheer underneath And swagged for a formal, graceful look.

There's more than one way to swag a drapery. For instance, you can take a generous sweep of rich rayon and acetate fabric and swag it all across. Along with sheers, it can widen the look of a window.



Sometimes, keeping it simple is the answer. When you've got a lush rayon and acetate fabric that looks like satin, you may want to just hang it from one of our very decorative rods.

Even a small window can be made to look important. Drape the sides with a rayon and acetate fabric, patterned and colored for subtle elegance. Add sheers, and top with a valance in one of our many styles.



Add architectural interest with a fabric-covered lambrequin. It beautifully frames the matching draperies of rayon and acetate fabric in a traditional weave.

Theme: 'Doing Is Part Of Living'

More than 275 4-H members and junior leaders are expected in Lincoln Tuesday through Friday for the 57th annual 4-H Club Conference.

Club activities, headquartered at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education, will emphasize citizenship and will revolve around the theme, "Doing Is Part of Living."

The young men and women attending the conference will range in age from 14 to 19 and will represent almost all of Nebraska's 93 counties, according to Louie E. Rudman, associate state 4-H leader.

Highlights of the week will include state public speaking competition on Tuesday, a field trip to Omaha on Wednesday and a day at the State Capitol on Friday.

Other activities Tuesday include an address by Karl Kiilsholm of Algona, Iowa. Kiilsholm, a Denmark native, will tell of personal hardships during World War II.

An outdoor barbeque at Peter Pan Park is scheduled for Tuesday evening, followed by a project carnival at the Nebraska center.

Wednesday's field trip to Omaha will enable the young people to explore career possibilities. Some 24 Omaha businesses and industries will participate in the career day, directed by Wes Antes, state 4-H leader.

Small discussion groups, Thursday, will concentrate on citizenship and the attitudes involved. During the session, junior leaders from Washington County will conduct a presentation on citizenship. They will be directed by Tom Leisy, Washington County extension agent.

The citizenship aspect of the week-long conference will be directed by JoAnn Luzio, an assistant state 4-H leader and a member of the national 4-H citizenship committee

State Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings will head up Friday's activities with an address on the youth's stake in government. Following Marvel's address, the participants will divide into legislative, judicial and executive branches and will conduct mock business sessions at the State Capitol

The government day will be organized by Ken Schmidt, associate state 4-H leader.

Hyatt School
Something Different

There's going to be a lot more than the three Rs taught this summer at the Helen Hyatt Elementary School, 5149 Calvert.

The traditional summer school courses of remedial reading and arithmetic will be on the schedule. But, more unusual classes like cooking, hiking, camping, karate and foreign languages also have been planned.

Registration for the summer program will be held from 6 to 9 p m Thursday and from 8 to 9 a m June 11, according to Mrs Ruby Higby, summer school director

About 30 pupils are expected to enroll for the summer program which begins June 11 and ends July 27.

The youngsters are excited with the summer program, Mrs. Higby noted, adding that she has been "swamped with telephone calls and inquiries."

Hyatt is a 300-pupil demonstration school for Union College and most of the 12 to 15 summer instructors will be student teachers from the college

Mrs Hyatt said the unusual summer schedule came about after Hyatt teachers "decided we wanted to do something a little different"

Holding the scrolls of the Torah . . . Jill and Jeffrey Schrier standing with Rabbi Stephen E. Fisch.

Jewish Coming Of Age A Joyous Occasion

By Anita Fussell

For a bar mitzvah and bas mitzvah to occur at the same time in a Jewish family is a rare and joyous occasion

An overflowing Congregation B nai Jeshuran reflected that joy at South Street Temple Friday evening when Jill and Jeffrey Schrier, children of Mr and Mrs Stanley Schrier, 3000 Kucera Drive, observed their Jewish coming of age.

Meaning literally "son of command," or "man of duty," bar mitzvah also stands for the religious ceremony that signals a son of the covenant has reached age 13, the age of responsibility and religious duty.

A girl's bas mitzvah, while optional, takes place when she reaches age 12

Good humor characterized the 250 people greeting each other warmly and filling double rows of theatre seats in the cool cream and gold synagogue. Carved archways reminiscent of the Middle East framed the recessed stage in front and the stained glass windows on either side of the square room.

It was a perfect setting for the twin mitzvahs.

Ten-year-old Julie Schrier, apple fresh in a green dress, began the service with a ritual lighting of the Sabbath candles.

"Come let us welcome the Sabbath May its radiance illumine our hearts . . . ," she read.

Then father presented son with the traditional white prayer shawl. Its pearly silk streaking down Jeff's dark blue shirt reminded the congregation that from now on Jeff would be considered an adult in the religious affairs of the synagogue.

Her reddish-blond hair pulled back into two pony tails anchored with white ribbons, Jill took her turn by leading the congregation in a responsive reading Taken mostly from the psalms, this portion of the service was indistinguishable from many Christian worship services

The young people alternated reading the service, a blend of English and Hebrew, speaking, chanting and singing. Choir passages were beautifully sung by a hidden soloist.

Jeff and Jill spent eight months studying their parts for this service, according to their mother, and took three years of Hebrew at Tifereth Israel Synagogue. Rabbi Stephen E Fisch commented at the end of the service that their reading of the Hebrew passages had been flawless.

The high point of the service came with the opening of the doors of the elaborately carved wooden ark. Inside lay its treasure, companion scrolls of the Torah, or Jewish law.

Lifting out one of the blue velvet-wrapped scrolls, Rabbi Fisch and the young people carried it to the lectern. First Jill, then Jeff read from the great scroll, following the Hebrew script with a silver tracer.

For the benefit of those who knew no Hebrew, Rabbi Fisch explained that the young people had read from that portion of the law containing the ten commandments

Before receiving their certificates from the congregation s president, Dr. Frank Ullman, Jill and Jeff briefly addressed the assembled members.

"Not only is this a bas mitzvah day for me," said Jill "but also a day of thanksgiving "

Jeff told his friends that becoming a man doesn't mean he ll stop being a boy (13 is a confusing age, he noted), but it does mean that he must now begin to think seriously about the place of education and religion in the life of an adult.

Regional Synod Holds Meeting

The first Annual Meeting of the United Presbyterian's Synod of Lakes and Prairies will take place June 12-14 at the College of St Scholastica in Duluth, Minn

Over 350 people representing 315,000 United Presbyterians in Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, North and South Dakota and Wisconsin, will convene at the meeting to discuss the business of the Synod

The regional Synod was created by a consolidation of the six state synods, and was officially constituted at an Organizing Meeting last January in Des Moines, Ia

According to Acting Synod Executive, Dr. Ellis Butler of Omaha, Nebraska, the meeting in June will focus on making the new regional church structure a working operation

Of special concern will be the election of a permanent Synod Executive who will have responsibility for overseeing and managing the day-to-day details of the Synod's operation

Among other issues expected to receive special consideration are

—Youth participation at all levels of decision-making within the Synod

—Planning and evaluation procedures for determining priorities in Synod activities and funding.

—Synod work among Indians in the six-state area.

Dr. Silas Kessler of Hastings, Nebraska, is Moderator of the Synod of Lakes and Prairies, and will preside at the June meeting.

Convention Wedding

The recent Lincoln convention of the American Baptist Churches in the U.S.A. provided the setting for the wedding of an elderly couple who met 50 years ago.

The bride and groom had known each other while young people at a Baptist Training Union activity but had since married others.

Both now widowed, the bride, Mrs. Ethel Shutts of Minneapolis, Minn., and the groom, Ronald Swain of Paton, Ia., earlier decided to marry while at the convention.

Performing the wedding at First Baptist Church was the Rev. George Munger, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Kenosha, Wisc., and nephew of the groom.

The photographer was the Rev. David Bartlett, pastor of the bride's church, University Baptist Church, and son of Dr. Gene Bartlett who serves as president of the ABC.

Russia Second

U.S. Jewish Population Ranks 1st

By Louis Cassels
UPI Religion Writer

There are more than twice as many Jews in the United States as there are in any other country of the world.

That statistic comes from the American Jewish year book, which puts the present U. S. Jewish population at 6,060,000.

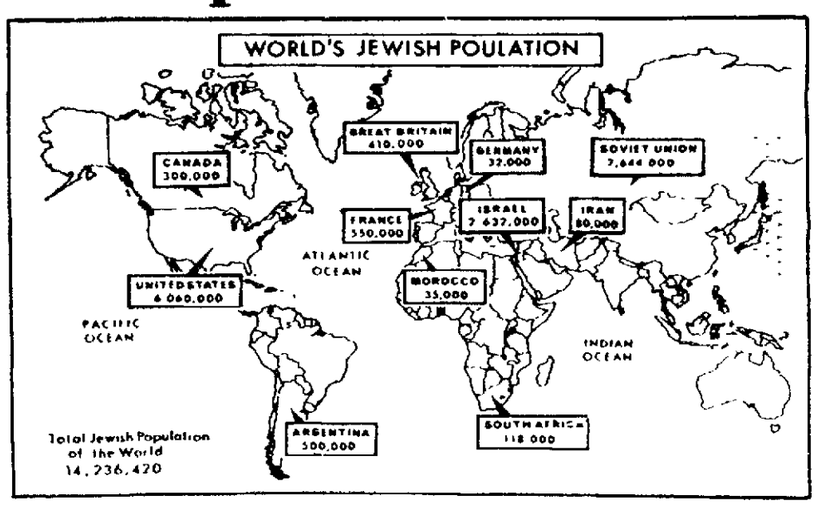
Israel, with 2,632,000 Jews, doesn't even rank second in Jewish population. Russia does. There currently are 2,644,000 Jews in the Soviet Union, the year book says.

However, emigration of Jews from the Soviet Union and into Israel probably will reverse their rank-order within a year or two.

Barring a population influx that would swamp its economy, Israel is never likely to overtake the United States in Jewish population. The greater New York area alone has almost as many Jews — 2,381,000 — as all of Israel.

Other interesting facts from the year book, published annually by the American Jewish Committee:

The U S. Jewish population has maintained a growth rate of just over one per cent in recent years. This is practically identical to the overall national population growth rate. As a result, the proportion of Jews in the American population has remained constant at just under three per cent of the total



Contrary to popular impression, Miami is not the city which ranks just below New York in the size of its Jewish population. With 187,500 Jews, Miami is fifth on the list. Los Angeles is second, with a Jewish population of 535,000. Philadelphis is third, at 350,000 and Chicago fourth with 269,000. Washington, D. C. and its Montgomery County, Md., suburbs have 169,000 Jewish residents, the sixth largest community in the country.

The Jewish population of the world is estimated at 14 236,420. With 80 per cent of this total residing in the United States. Russia and Israel, no other nation has as many as 1 million Jews

France has 550 000, Argentina 500,000, Great Britain 410,000, and Canada 300 000

In spite of past injustices, 32,000 Jews continue to live in Germany.

In Asia, the only substantial Jewish community other than Israel is found in Iran, which has about 80,000 Jews

In Africa, there are major Jewish communities only in South Africa (118 000) and Morocco (35 000)

All adults need the freedom to play. Unfortunately, it seems that often we go through our lives without ever feeling free enough to have a really good time. Perhaps the reason that we keep developing bigger and better gadgets to help us relax is that we have lost the facility of relaxation and fun. Having fun, no matter what the problems are that you may have to cope with each day, takes real self knowledge. Now, before technology thrusts leisure upon us, is the time to decide how we will spend our time.

METCALF FUNERAL HOME, 245 North 27th St, will serve you at any distance—local, national or international. Serving all faiths and religions at a price within your needs. Beautiful facilities. Phone 432-5591.

House of the Week

Contemporary Has Sleek Appearance

By Andy Lang, AP

This graceful contemporary house is a raised ranch or bi-level, as it is sometimes called. Combining the best features of the simple ranch, the split level and the two-story, Design R-13 is flexible, aesthetic and functional.

The use of stone and vertical siding on the exterior blends with the crisp lines of the house and the natural surroundings. Decorative wrought iron railing leading to the recessed entry door provides a design feature that softens the exterior and gives it scale. Architect Samuel Paul has made that entry door a visual delight with floor-to-ceiling glass panels that serve to flood the split entrance foyer with natural light.

Up a few steps is the spacious and efficient main living floor; down half a level is the multi-purpose area designed to include a family room, study or guest room, large laundry-sewing combination, lavatory and a laundry chute from above. Access to the two-car garage is reached through a central hall at this level. Behind the garage is a large storage area and heater room. This lower level need not be finished unless the owner so chooses.

Getting back to the main part of the house, one enters from the centrally located split foyer where a decorative wrought iron railing helps to define the open spaces. To the left is the living and dining rooms shaped in an L. The windows from the dining area look out upon the attractive deck and afford a view of gardens in the rear. The living room boasts a large expanse of windows facing the front which are also an integral part of the exterior design. The efficient eat-in kitchen is comfortably situated with entrances to the dining room and the central foyer. It is completely equipped.

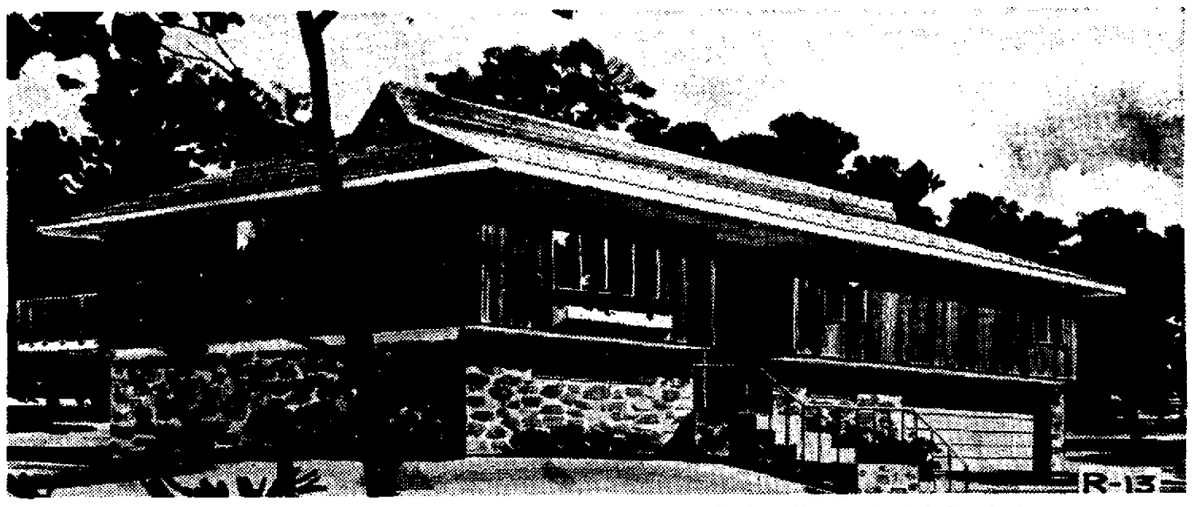
To the right of the foyer is a hallway leading to the bedroom wing which consists of three bedrooms and two baths. The master bedroom has its own full bath. The bedroom hall includes a guest closet and a linen closet in addition to the conveniently located bath. A laundry chute in the central hall bath conveniently takes care of the accumulation of soiled clothes and linens. It terminates at the lower level next to the laundry room. Total square footage of the main level is only 1450 square feet.

Additional economies were achieved by the use of cluster plumbing which utilizes a central plumbing wall to include the two baths and the kitchen on the upper level and the lavatory on the lower level.

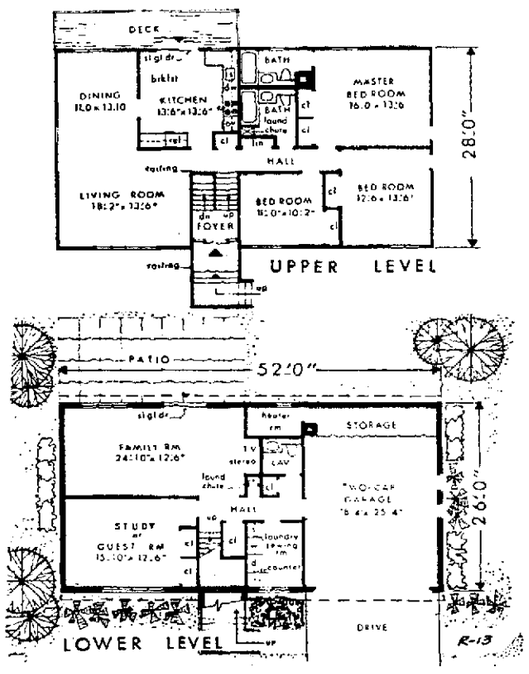
A nice looking house with excellent livability.

R-13 Statistics

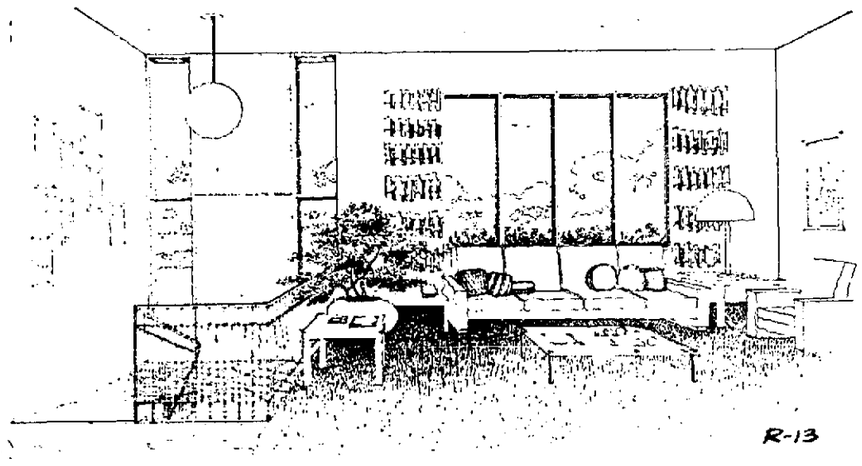
Design R-13 has a living room, dining room, eat-in kitchen, three bedrooms, two bathrooms and a foyer on the main level, totaling 1450 square feet. On the lower level are a family room, study or guest room, laundry-sewing room and lavatory, totaling 965 square feet. There is a two-car garage, behind which is a sizable storage area. The over-all dimensions of 52' by 26' include the garage.



Design R-13, a raised ranch, has a railed rear deck, glimpsed at left, that stretches along the kitchen and dining room.



Deck is handy from kitchen; lower level is excellent for family use.



Living Room has vertical windows; railing sets off stairway.

Is A Verbal Offer Any Good?

Q. Why isn't a verbal offer to purchase a home just as good as a written offer to purchase?

A. After a quick check with your attorney you will find, as the old saying goes, Verbal offers on real estate "aren't worth the paper they are written on." All contracts in real estate must be in writing to be binding on either party. Make sure the details of the transaction are clearly stated, and in most cases the seller's signature must be notarized. Most of us in the real estate business use a standard Offer to Purchase form. It states at the beginning "This is a legally binding contract. If not understood, seek legal advice."

Q. Should I buy a new or existing home?

A. Your taste in living will determine which suits you better. Some people like the experience of starting from the ground up in a new home, some like a completely developed area. Many times the location is the most important factor and many families buy a home strictly for it's closeness to a school of their choice. New or existing? It's an old question and it can only be answered by you.

Postmasters Meet In Norfolk

Norfolk — A record number of postmasters are expected to attend the Nebraska Chapter Convention of The National Association of Postmasters at the Villa Inn here Tuesday - Friday.

Among the dignitaries addressing the convention will be: Chester L. Carlock, assistant regional postmaster general for mail processing, Chicago, Ill.; Charles Dickey, acting district manager, and Clyde Duxbury, support representative; both from Omaha district office; and Ted Morrell, assistant inspector-in-charge, Kansas City, Mo.

The convention program includes a golf and bowling tournament, trap shoot, postal seminars, and election of state officers.

Sod House Society To Meet

The Annual Spring Meeting of The Sod House Society will be June 10th at Hemingford and Alliance. The group will meet at the Knight Museum in the Alliance city park at 9 a.m.

After a sod house tour in the Berea area, registration will be in the city park at Hemingford. After a luncheon, music, and a short business meeting, another tour will be made of sod houses west and north of Hemingford.

Rose Show Here Is Next Sunday

The recent sunshine has brought smiles to many people in Lincoln.

For with the sunshine, buds on rose bushes are showing color, some are even bursting into bloom.

Among those so pleased about the nice weather are the members of Lincoln Rose Society. Their annual show will be next Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. at First Federal Savings & Loan Assn., 1235 N.

C. Van Henkle is chairman of the show, with Edwin Kapperman, president of the society, show co-chairman.

Among the rules are that exhibitors must be amateurs and that anyone may enter the show except the Challenge Trophy Classes, which require membership in the society.

At 6:30 a.m. next Sunday entries will be accepted and at 10:15 a.m. all exhibits must be in place. At 10:30 a.m. judging begins and at 1 p.m. the show opens to the public. There is no charge.

Awards will be presented at 4 p.m.

More information may be obtained from the chairmen or any member of the society.

Your Nurseryman Speaks

Spring Problems Run Into Summer

Anyone who has tried to plant garden or shrubbery this spring has had problems — real problems In some cases, solving these problems has called for considerable ingenuity

For example, one long-time gardener finally resorted to an old fashioned corn cob fork to get his seed into the ground. He had his land plowed in March and disced in early May He had, of course, hoped to have it harrowed before planting But when this proved impractical because of weather he simply harrowed it himself — by hand

With a corn cob fork, he picked up the larger clods and tossed them outside the garden, letting the smaller ones fall through the fork and back onto the planting area. Then he crushed and raked these smaller clods with a steel tine rake.

Now his garden is surrounded by a dike of clods

At present the great problem, irony of ironies, is dryness: A hard crust of earth resulting from too much moisture is causing trouble for those who want to cultivate.

And cultivation is extremely important since, at present, water is running off some soils much like it runs off a duck's back.

If there are big cracks in your earth, try watering a day or two before you plan to cultivate. This may make the soil much more manageable.

Be careful not to cultivate so deeply as to disturb roots.

Farmers traditionally fear a wet spring followed by a dry summer. Plants become "lazy". Since plenty of moisture is available right after planting, the plants don't need to send out many roots to support a lot of lush top growth.

If the weather turns hot and dry fast, the plant may actually collapse and die before it can get out enough roots to support its wilting foliage.

To aid the plant in this crucial period when it's adjusting to the dry cycle, shower it — particularly after hot, windy days. Moreover, examine the plant carefully for any indication of wilt. Wilt is one of Mother Nature's more important warning signs.

In many cases, a mulch will not only make the surface of the ground more manageable but also conserve moisture, particularly during those hot months now approaching.

I have planted in three differing locations this spring. In two of these, earth stuck to the spade. It was a miserable, irritating chore

In the third location, despite the fact it had received at least as much moisture as the other two, digging was a comparative delight The soil "worked" perfectly

What was the difference? The first two soils had been sprayed with all kinds of insecticides, fungicides, etc. The third soil had been untouched by chemicals and in it were all kinds of earthworms. I couldn't lift a spade without seeing one or more

These earthworms had encouraged proper drainage of the soil and, in so doing, had made the spade work much easier.

By the time I'd dug four hours, I was willing to admit that, after only dogs, an earthworm is a man's best friend.

Garden Gossip

Oyster Shell Scale Treatment Time Now

By Emery W. Nelson
County Extension Agent

I believe I see more shrubs infected with oyster shell scale than ever before. Almost all the lilacs have this insect and many other shrubs have them as well I frequently see cotoneaster, spirea and other flowering shrubs that show severe injury from oyster shell scale.

Now is the time to control this insect. The newer insecticides give better results and when applied thoroughly and at the right time they are very effective.

One of the new insecticides recommended is called Cygon. Cygon is systemic in action but even so it needs to be sprayed in such a manner that the infected plant is completely covered.

Another insecticide that has given good results is Diazinon. Both Cygon and Diazinon are applied near the first of June and again about 10 days later.

Heavily infested shrubs should be pruned to eliminate the older branches. These should be destroyed so hatching scale will not move to healthy plants.

2,000 Apply for Tax Exemption

More than 2,000 Lancaster County homeowners applied for a homestead exemption before the Friday deadline, according to Lancaster County Assessor Fritz Meyer

A new law passed by the Legislature Friday provides that persons who are 65 years or older, who live in their own homes and who meet a low-income test, are eligible for an exemption of 90% of property taxes on the first $7,500 of homestead actual value.

Next year that benefit for low-income elderly will rise to 90% of property taxes on the first $15,000 of homestead actual value

Meyer said 2,116 persons applied for the exemptions with 550 applying the last two days The assessor estimated that about one-half of those eligible in the county applied.

Call It a Kayak or a Plyak

Build and Paddle Your Own Either Way

By Steve Ellingson
Special Writer

The kayak is enjoying newfound popularity. Here's a nimble, lightweight craft that has its roots in the Arctic as a basic instrument of survival, yet is branching out as a modern outdoor sport on rivers and lakes.

To the Eskimo, a kayak is more than a boat. When he's laced into his whale-bone and walrus-hide craft, he's ready for anything in the way of water or weather. To most of us, however, a kayak is pure adventure. It's perfect for poking around uninhabited islands, exploring the bends of a lazy, winding river or just breaking the peaceful surface of a placid lake at sunset.

Since whale bone and walrus hide are rather hard to come by, this "plyak" has been designed to give the pleasure of a kayak in a boat made from readily-available materials, like exterior-grade plywood. For anyone who has built a boat before, the plyak should take about 40 man hours to complete. It measures a little over 11 feet long with a 30-inch beam and a gross weight of about 40 pounds. When launched, the plyak will be an excellent one-man boat with possibly one child to "crew."

'Eye Fooler' Is Retiring

Madison (AP) — Aaron Bohrod, 65, master of the "trompe l'oeil" technique of painting, is retiring after 25 years as artist in residence at the University of Wisconsin. However, he will continue to paint at his studio at home

As a combat artist in World War II, Bohrod painted 100 pictures in the European and Pacific theaters, first for the Army and later for Life magazine.

Bohrod developed the technique of painting objects so realistically that they were said to fool the eye—"trompe l'oeil."

Well Water Levels Mostly Unchanged

Associated Press

Water level changes in wells were insignificant in most parts of Nebraska in 1972, although there was a marked decline in the heavily pumped areas near Atkinson and O'Neill, according to a report published by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

The report, "Groundwater Levels in Nebraska, 1972," is published by the conservation and survey division at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln in cooperation with the U.S. Geological Survey.

The report said the rate of lowering of water levels around O'Neill has been more than one foot per year since 1966.

Water levels also continued to fall in the irrigated area of Chase County west of Imperial and in Box Butte County near Alliance, according to the report.

In most of Nebraska, however, water level changes in wells were insignificant and only 33 of the 93 counties ended 1972 with average water levels lower than the previous year.

In the Blue River Basin where much groundwater is pumped for irrigation, the water levels were lowered less than normal and even rose in parts of Adams, Clay, Fillmore, Saline, Seward and York Counties.

The largest rises in water levels occurred in Gosper, Kearney and Phelps Counties.

ONE OF THE FREEDOMS THEY FOUGHT FOR WAS THE RIGHT OF THE PEOPLE TO BE INFORMED...

WE MUST PRESERVE THE FREEDOM OF THE PRESS!

The struggle for independence was a long and hard one . . . but the knowledge that they were right and a fervent desire for liberty gave the colonists the fortitude they needed to withstand the hardships of the American Revolution. Today, we Americans still prize our liberty . . . and one of our most cherished freedoms is the right to publish the news that keeps the people informed.

Forms Company

Hollywood (UPI) — Actor Lee Van Cleef has formed LVC Productions to establish a music publishing company.

Ryan and Tatum O'Neal.

Little Scene Stealer Is Actor's Daughter

Los Angeles (AP) — Actors have long been warned against playing scenes with dogs and children. But when the scene stealer is your daughter, how can you resist?

That is at least a partial explanation by Ryan O'Neal concerning why he soon will be seen costarring with his 9-year-old daughter, Tatum, in Paper Moon. Adhering to tradition, she steals the picture from him, although advance reviewers gave him plaudits, too.

Paper Moon is a new film by Peter Bogdanovich, who became a major director with The Last Picture Show and What's Up Doc? Ryan O'Neal is a smooth-talking con man of the 1930s Midwest, and Tatum plays a daughter who can out-connive him

Not bad casting. O'Neal is no con man, but he knows from hard experience how to survive in the Hollywood jungle. As for Tatum, her father admitted that she is somewhat more than a handful.

Tatum is the child of O'Neal and his first wife, actress Joanna Moore It's an odd name for a girl baby, but it came from Miss Moore's southern family. O'Neal went along with it "because at that time Goose Tatum, the basketball player, was an idol of mine "

Tatum's parents divorced and O'Neal saw little of his daughter during her early years. He remarked with a note of irony:

"But she could see me three times a week — on Peyton Place. And to think that for a year I was suspected of murder Not a very good image for a father."

Last year O'Neal took over custody of Tatum. With school out, she is joining him in England where he expects to work six months on a film

'G' Films Succeed 'If They're Good'

By Frederick M. Winship

New York (UPI) — Fed up with X-rated movies? So are some people in the film business and they're doing something about it.

"When we were on location in Missouri filming Tom Sawyer, we had about 3,000 visitors a day and they all said, 'Thank God you're making this film because we can't find films to take our kids to'," producer Arthur P Jacobs said "Columbia was the nearest city and there wasn't a G-rated picture showing there at the time "

The current national release of Jacobs' film based on the Mark Twain classic swells the small but significant number of G-rated films that have appeared so far this year These include Sounder, Godspell, Lost Horizon and Treasure Island.

Jacobs, who began his career as an MGM studios messenger and later was publicist for some of Hollywood's top stars, has built his directing career with films for the whole family.

His Dr. Doolittle won two Academy awards and Goodbye, Mr. Chips is a second-time-around classic His Planet of the Apes series the fifth and last of which will be released later this year, is one of the biggest money-makers in screen history with a gross of $75 million to date.

"Family films always are successful if they are good," said the small, 51-year-old Los Angeles native "I think people want to get out of the house and away from the tube A whole generation has grown up since Tom Sawyer was last made into a movie 37 years ago, so it was time for a new look at an old favorite "

Apparently Reader's Digest, which had a hankering to get into the entertainment field, thought so, too. The magazine teamed up with United Artists to finance Tom Sawyer, which Jacobs brought in for less than $2 5 million — the lowest budgeted movie musical since the 1940s

"I feel the 'Reader's Digest presents' on all our publicity is a seal of approval that can't hurt," Jacobs said.

Tom Sawyer was filmed in Arrow Rock, Mo , a restored river town of the 1830s that is a ringer for the Hannibal, Mo., of Twain's boyhood. The camera work is lyrical, the cast unfailingly engaging, and songs by Robert and Richard Sherman of Mary Poppins fame dovetail neatly into the action. The brothers also adapted the screenplay.

Will Tom Sawyer make a child star of talented nine-year-old Johnny Whitaker, sho starred with Brian Keith for six seasons on TV's A Family Affair? Jacobs doesn't think so

"The era of Shirley Temple and Freddie Bartholomew will never come again, Jacobs said. "Now child actors are good if the picture is right, but pictures aren't done just for them anymore."

In June Jacobs will start to film a musical version of Huckleberry Finn, starring Jeff East, a 14-year-old Kansas City high school student

Brando's 'Tango' Due in Omaha

Omaha — It appears that the controversial X-rated movie starring Marlon Brando, Last Tango in Paris, has been booked by the Admiral Theater, 40th and Farnam here and will open this week. Reserved seat tickets are expected to sell for $3.50.

who made his screen debut in the same role in Tom Sawyer. Folk singer Charlie Pride is writing the score Locations will be Nauvoo, Ill , a Mormon restoration, and Natchez, Miss.

Just to keep busy, Jacobs is bringing a musical version of "Cyrano de Bergerac to Broadway this season In the fall he will begin a two-year project — a realistic science fiction film, The Journey of the Oceanauts, which promises to rate high as family fare

Spy John Honeyman Knew Why Washington Crossed Delaware

By Victor Wilson
(c) Newhouse News Service

Washington — The tiny hamlet of Griggstown, near Princeton, N.J., was in a tizzy that day when Gen George Washington and his staff rode up to John Honeyman's house and dismounted.

The general walked up on the modest porch, shook hands warmly with Honeyman, exchanged a few quiet (and private) words and then remounted and rode away.

To this day most Americans don't know, though Washington did, that John Honeyman, a weaver by trade, and a spy by choice, almost certainly provided the vital information that saved the American Revolution in the dreadful winter of 1776.

As much of the Honeyman story as is known (and that's not much) is related in "The Winter Soldiers" (Doubleday) in a fascinating new look at the Revolution's beginnings by Richard M. Ketchum He is director of book publishing at American Heritage, and edited the famed "Picture History of the Civil War" which won a Pulitzer Prize special citation

Other historians believe Ketchum has begun to do for the Revolution what Bruce Catton did so brilliantly for the Civil War. Indeed, Catton has said that with Ketchum telling about it, "The Revolution begins to appear as a tale of men like ourselves."

The Honeyman story seems to be in the pattern Catton is talking about. A colonist about whom little background is available, Honeyman served the British involuntarily in the French and Indian war, and at one time was bodyguard to Gen. James Wolfe, of Battle of Quebec fame

Honeyman apparently met Washington in Philadelphia shortly after the first Congress named the Virginian commander-in-chief of its infant army. After relating that he'd like to strike a blow at the British, Honeyman made a private deal with Washington, historian Ketchum says. This was to pose as a cattle dealer-butcher, which gave him good cover to roam behind the lines of both sides. He was to report directly to Washington when he had something.

Shortly before Christmas 1776, Honeyman was "captured" by intent outside Washington's tattered lines on the Delaware River opposite Trenton, where some 4,000 German Hessians were stationed.

To the surprise of all, the general closeted himself with the "cattleman" for half an hour, then ordered him locked up. Later, in darkness, some straw caught fire (or was set) near the lockup and the sentry ran to help put out the blaze.

Mysteriously, the guardhouse door somehow came unlocked and Honeyman slipped away, though he was fired on by vigilant guards as he headed toward the Delaware. And that was that — so it seemed.

But, says Ketchum, Honeyman during their talk gave Washington a complete rundown on Hessian positions at Trenton; location of defense strongpoints and numbers of men available. More importantly, he reported on the Germans' preparation to observe their traditional Christmas Eve and Christmas night with plentiful supplies of booze obtained for just that purpose.

To complete the coup, Ketchum says, Honeyman after "escaping," headed for Trenton and told the Hessians' commander, Col. Johann Gottlieb Rall that Washington's forces, badly battered in New York and upper Jersey earlier, were in hopeless condition. Rall bought that story.

So, as most Americans do know, Washington crossed the ice-choked Delaware Christmas night, smashed Rall's forces (killing Rall himself), and a few days later beat the demoralized British again at Princeton.

It was a tonic the disheartened Americans needed, and the victories rang from end to end of the 13 colonies, bringing men and supplies streaming to Washington. Not long before the general had told Congress, "The game is pretty nearly up"; that the war and independence were a dead dream unless something turned up.

What turned up, of course, was Honeyman.

Writes Ketchum: "Honeyman was a taciturn man (with a pretty Irish wife and four children) who kept his own counsel. So far as is known, he received no reward for his efforts until 1783, after the war had ended"

4 Rock Bands at Pershing Tonight in Fillmore Style

Four rock bands — Savoy Brown, Status Quo, Blue Oyster Cult and Canned Heat — will be in a Fillmore style concert at 7:30 tonight at Pershing Auditorium.

One of the original English blues bands, Savoy Brown has recorded 10 albums in their seven years of existence. Their combination rock 'n' roll, blues sound is produced by Kim Simmonds, lead guitar; Jackie Lynton, vocals; Andy Pyle, bass guitar; Paul Raymond, keyboards, and Ron Berg, drums.

With only one change in the lineup, Status Quo has been together as a band for nearly 10 years. They are best known for the 1968 top chart topper "Pictures of Matchstick Men." Their latest A&M album is entitled "Piledriver."

Teton Festival Has New Hall

Teton Village, Wyo. (AP) — A new concert hall on the lower slope of the Teton Mountains will be the permanent home of the Grand Teton Music Festival in Jackson Hole, Wyo.

The first row of seats will be on the stage level with further rows on a rising slope. The hall will seat 800 with expansion potential for 1,200 seats. It is set in an aspen grove watered by a creek on land donated by the Jackson Hole Ski Corp. in Teton Village. Looking up while approaching the hall, one sees the peaks of Tetons north and south as far as sight can extend.

The first season in the new Festival Hall begins July 24. There are 20 programs, including chamber music, contemporary music and symphony concerts. It is the 12th year of the festival.

Scientists To Chase Eclipse in SST for 80 Minutes of Show

United Press International

On June 30 there will occur the second longest total eclipse of the sun by the moon in the recorded history of man — and the world's scientists are preparing eagerly for it.

Duration of the sun's total blackout will be seven minutes, four seconds. The only longer total eclipse, in records going back to the first measured one in June, 717 A D., was the eclipse of June 20, 1955, which was total for seven minutes, eight seconds. This year's eclipse ties for second with that of June 8, 1937

The June 30 eclipse will not be visible in the United States. Its totality will begin at sunrise near the border of Guyana with northern Brazil in South America. It then will move over the Atlantic Ocean west of Senegal, and cross northern Africa from Mauritania to Kenya, and a corner of the Somali Republic. The shadow will move across the Indian Ocean and leave the earth's sight at sunset some 1,000 miles east of Madagascar.

The greatest gatherings of professional astronomers for their viewing and experiments are expected to be in Mauritania and Keyna Their time limit in fixed locations, for watching the phenomenon, will be seven minutes four seconds But other scientists are arranging for longer viewings — traveling aboard high speed aircraft

Two planes loaded with astronomers and their special equipment will "chase" the eclipse, hoping to achieve in one case a view of total eclipse for 11 minutes 51 seconds, and in the other an incredible 80 minutes

The longer view is anticipated by scientists who will be aboard the Anglo-French supersonic airliner Concorde The nearly 12-minute viewing is hoped to be accomplished by observers aboard a U S Air Force NC135, most of them from the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory in New Mexico This group's base will be the Torrejon Air Force Base in Spain

Altogether, several thousand of the world's scientists, from almost every country, will be engaged on June 30 to catch as much as they can of the eclipse, and learn whatever new they can about the sun. They will not have as good a chance again until the year 2150, when a 7 minute, 14-second eclipse is predicted.

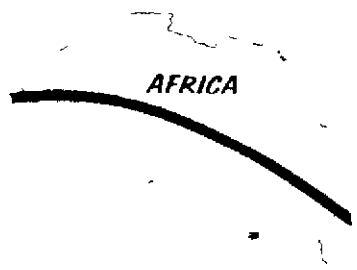
For the Los Alamos flight, the scientific coordinator will be Arthur N Cox It will be his sixth eclipse and the fourth time he has led LASL SEX (Los Alamos Solar Eclipse Expedition) group Although Cox says that in some respects "this is just another eclipse," he notes that "the longer the totality the more observations that can be made, and with more precision."

Among the LASL SEX experiments planned during the eclipse, most will probe the suns corona, the halo around the sun that can be fully viewed only when the moon eclipses the center of the solar system The studies will embrace the sun's coronal structure, brightness, polarization, temperature and magnetic fields

One effort will be to try to find an explanation of why the temperature of the sun's atmosphere rises from about 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit at the surface to several million degrees thousands of miles away

Photographs to be taken will include the use of a coronal camera taking pictures through Polaroid filters, to determine the degree of polarization of light in the corona.

While some scientists are busy in their aircraft, a far greater number will be assembled at various points on the ground One of the largest concentrations of astronomers will be along the eastern and southern mainland shores of Lake Rudolf in Kenya John Carr who will head a 50-member group from the Boston Museum of Science estimates the number of professional observers around the lake will be about 5 000



Path of eclipse across Africa.

Carr director of the Boston Museum s Hayden Planetarium, will be assisted at the site by Jeffrey Baumgardner, a lecturer at the planetarium who is completing a special five-foot long telephoto lens for photographing the eclipse

Weather often in the past has hampered attempts to view solar eclipses but the Boston experts doubt that weather will be a problem for them in Kenya Meteorological data indicates a probability of clear skies Lake Rudolf tends in any case to be cloud free most of the day due to a local air circulation pattern.

Mothers, Beware! MF Runs in Cycles

By Beverlee Swanson
Special Writer
McCook

A new epidemic seems to be sweeping the country — and McCook as well No one is immune, but its victims are mostly young males If you haven't seen it, surely you have heard it It's Motorcycle Fever, or MF

This fearful plague, which strikes dread in the hearts of most mothers, can cause a boy's eyes to sparkle and his mouth to draw into a wide grin By boy, I mean any male from 8 to 50

It is my personal opinion that most 30- to 40-year-old fathers are among the worst carriers of the disease, having been exposed to it in their teens when only the most daring of their peers rode motorcycles.

MF germs seeped into our house gradually from contact with afflicted neighbors Mealtime conversations became sprinkled with such comments as I saw Jerry out checking the irrigation on his cycle Sure would save on gas ' Or "A trail bike would be better than a horse All you have to do is go jump on and it doesn't eat unless you are using it '

These were the first signs but I failed to recognize them and I doubt that I could have halted the disease even then

Symptoms continued to manifest themselves until father and sons succumbed at last and purchased a used trail bike With this the fever seemed to be under control for several months especially since the machine was in the shop much of the time

Then, without warning, our 16-year-old son started keeping one eye on his bank account and the other on the "Motorcycles for Sale" column in the want ads. The fever was upon us once more.

It peaked the night he saw the ad for a 125 street bike with 4,000 miles We all went to look at it, and from the expression on his face as he slowly circled the red and chrome beauty, I knew he was smitten

On the way home, with the bike stowed in the back of the pickup (we vetoed the idea of his riding there with it), the proud owner sighed "Boy, I'm going to keep that forever What would anyone want with more bike than that?'

With the coming of spring MF ran rampant Because there was a steady stream of cyclists up and down it most Sundays Naturally, when they gather they discuss their MF symptoms, and it seems that the only way to get relief is to go to a bigger and better cycle

As the mother of a stricken family, I constantly urge safety and never, under any circumstances, do I watch them race across the yard. This is best accomplished by shutting myself in a closet

So far there are no signs that MF is loosening its grip on our family In fact our 12-year-old now has a minibike his big brother is thinking of ' trading up ' and Dad remarked the other day "If I had a 350, you and I could both ride on it — maybe take a trip somewhere

I don t think so The time I popped a wheelie made me immune — for a while

Our Little Town

Pat for 'Miss Petite America'

By Gertrude Skinner
Superior

One of the greatest joys of modern life is the excellence of communication

One need not lose track (all sorts of communication in that one word "track") of one's girl friends if one is able to communicate by letter telephone or personal visit

The track records of the current national beauty contests leave me less than enthusiastic. All the winners seem to be very tall and very beautiful Any girl less than six feet might just as well stay home and kick cinders in the eyes of her beholders

My hang-up on this has led me to believe that perhaps my claim to fame might be in initiating a beauty contest for high school senior girls to be known as the Miss Petite America" pageant One requirement only and that would be negative — no girl over 5 feet, 5 inches would be eligible

Herewith is my personal choice for "Miss Petite America of 1973' — Pat Hofts

Pat is the daughter of Mr and Mrs John Hofts whose mail address is Hardy

Pat graduated from Ruskin High School this spring. She was secretary of the senior class and Student Council president. She served on the school annual staff, participated in music and dramatics, was chosen cheerleader for three years and named to the Little Blue Conference Volleyball team two years in succession. Active in church and community affairs, Pat also found the time to achieve scholastic excellence

Track? Oh yes She is 1973 State Class D Champion in the long jump with a pair of track shoes that negotiated 17 feet 4½ inches When she hung up her track shoes at the end of high school participation in sports Pat had to move over 19 previously won medals to accommodate them

Pat Hofts

All this from a girl no bigger than a minute (She is 5 feet 2½ inches) A girl with her beautiful blonde head on straight and filled with concern and consideration for others — a winning combination

'Tomorrow' Probably In October

By Associated Press

Indications are now that Tomorrow, a new NBC television venture, won't start until next autumn, probably in October. That means it will follow the premiere week for the 1973-75 television season.

Originally NBC had hoped to have the show on the air this spring.

The show will complete the sequence started when NBC introduced Today in 1952 and Tonight in 1954

Host of the new one-hour program will be Tom Snyder, a Milwaukee, Wis., native. He's been the 6 p.m. news anchorman since 1970 at KNBC-TV, a Los Angeles area station owned by NBC

Tomorrow is aimed at earlier risers or night owls, depending on one's point of view. It'll start at midnight (central time) right after the Tonight and will be seen four mornings: Tuesdays through Fridays

Tomorrow is described by NBC as a "sophisticated talk show" that will tackle controversial, adult subjects Snyder will discuss these subjects with one or more experts and various personalities

Some of the shows will cover the lighter side of life, according to NBC, which says Tomorrow will be taped without an audience at the

'M-A-S-H' Cast Vetoed Script That Called for Using Weapons

By Jerry Buck

Los Angeles (AP) — A number of television series have been derived from movies, but M A S H may be the first to ignore the movie and go back to the original book for its inspiration

The CBS series draws only its physical look and the camp loudspeaker from the movie

The film was, of course, a hit, but whether its attitudes could have been sustained on television is problematical. Those who put the series together thought not

"There are three major differences between the series and the movie," said McLean Stevenson the tall, lean Illinoisian who plays chief surgeon Lt Col Henry Blake

"First the surgeons are highly skilled in the book and in the series" said Stevenson. "They are not in the movie. Second, in the series, any joke in the operating room is strictly between the doctors In the movie some of the jokes were directed at the patients Third, we all wanted to be drafted, as everyone in the book was In the movie they made Col. Blake a Regular Army man."

These changes reflect different attitudes that provide the foundation for the off-duty antics of the surgeons of the Mobile Army Surgical Hospital, Stevenson said. If you could show they were highly skilled, worked long hours and were dedicated to saving lives, then the foolishness grew naturally as a relief from the tensions, he added.

Stevenson came to M A S H with a background on the stage and improvisational acting and two years on the Doris Day Show. Still, he is a latecomer to acting By the time he turned to acting at 31, he had been a salesman of hospital supplies and worked on the presidential campaigns of his cousin and neighbor in Bloomington, Ill., Adlai Stevenson.

He said, "I work very hard at acting Sometimes so hard that it takes the fun out of it for other people"

In another area M A S H also sets a precedent It is the first TV military comedy to be fully aware of the horrors of war. In M A S H soldiers are wounded and occasionally die on the operating table despite the effort of surgeons. But in McHales's Navy, for instance, combat was a pastime the sailors amused themselves with when they ran out of other mischief.

"The thing that would make us welcome in living rooms is that we react to the war, but we do not participate in it," Stevenson said. "We felt strongly about the war in Vietnam Although this is Korea in 1952, it could be Vietnam."

One script handed the cast called for the doctors to bear arms. "We asked the production people to leave. The cast went over it and we voted no to do it," he said. "It was unbelievable. So we got another script"

McLean Stevenson, who plays role of Lt. Col. Henry Blake, is a cousin of Adlai Stevenson.

TV Feature: America's Last King

By Sandra Reiber

Folklorist Oscar Brand hosts American Odyssey on KUON (ETV) at 7 tonight. This four-part series documents the American heritage through folk music. Concerts were staged at four historic locations with the first program, Off to the Sea Again, filmed at Bar Harbor, Me The program repeats twice Tuesday, at 3 and 7 p.m.

Help For Retarded

That dramatic progress can be made with the mentally retarded is illustrated in NBC's First Tuesday, on KMTV at 9 p.m. Tuesday. The report zeroes in on a new facility — Oakwood — in Somerset, Ky. The program is intended to make the viewer angry by showing institutions like Willowbrook in New York and other large metropolitan areas and comparing them to Oakwood.

Fun at Silver Springs

George III and Revolution

Peter Ustinov portrays England's George III at three critical stages of his reign during and after the American Revolution, on The Last King of America, to be broadcast Wednesday at 7 p.m. on KOLN and WOW (CBS). In the role, Ustinov is interviewed by Eric Sevareid, who assumes the view of a colonial journalist of the Revolutionary period.

The Last King of America is the second in a CBS News series on The American Revolution.

George III, along with his prime minister, Frederick Lord North, was acknowledged to be the man most responsible for the colonial uprising

Through Ustinov, the King is seen on the broadcast at those pivotal moments when he grossly underestimated the passion of his American subjects and thus paved the way to their victory; when he was faced with the indisputable fact that a major portion of the Empire had been lost, and when, at reign's end, he was deemed insane and lost the power of the throne.

Interviewer Eric Sevareid and Peter Ustinov in role of King George III.

Pickers at Brownville

Rebroadcasts of Pick-In by the River will be seen Friday on KUON (ETV) at 9 p.m. and again Saturday at 3 p.m. This award-winning program was taped and filmed last August 1972 during the Brownville Old Fiddlers and Country Music Festival.

'Firebird' Returns

The outstanding PBS series of music and dance, International Performance, returns to KUON Saturday at 2 p.m. The Firebird, Igor Stravinsky's colorful ballet, begins the series The programs were originally produced for the French national television network (ORTF).

Morning News Changing Teams

Changes afoot at CBS involve a change of anchormen on the CBS Morning News.

CBS says John Hart, anchorman for the show since August 1970, and his Washington-based coanchorman, Nelson Benton, are being reassigned by midsummer at the latest.

They'll be replaced by another two-member anchor team, one of whom will be a woman, said a CBS spokesman who announced no names.

Richard S. Salant, CBS News president, reported the change to a CBS affiliates meeting in Los Angeles He said the show will remain "essentially news-oriented" but will be faster-paced, "more departmentalized" and regularly emphasize consumer news.

He said the decision to change anchormen was hard to make, but that "our support was eroding." He said in an interview later he meant that a number of CBS affiliates now either aren't carrying the show — which appears opposite the first hour of NBC's Today — or are broadcasting only 30 minutes of it.

Russell Liked ABC, Has Doubts on CBS

By Ron Powers
(c) Chicago Sun-Times

Bill Russell did not step out of his role as a TV basketball commentator because ABC network officials thought he was too opinionated, contrary to a rumor making the rounds

On May 12, Russell announced he would accept the job as head coach of the Seattle pro basketball team For the last couple of years, the former Boston Celtic star had been a witty, blunt and highly savvy commentator on ABC's National Basketball Assn. telecasts.

His matter-of-fact observations that this star forward was "just standing around," or that guard couldn't dribble, or some other poor flailing team was just playing plain stupid basketball, probably set certain low-profile types' teeth on edge in the ABC front offices.

Certainly, it gave rise to speculation when Russell departed that network TV was not yet ready for a black Howard Cosell (the comparison is really ridiculous, because Russell has a sense of humor, among other qualities, and Cosell doesn't).

But in a telephone call from Los Angeles the other day, Russell — who owes ABC nothing and is not the kind of guy to indulge in corporate courtesy — made it plain that the network didn't hassle his on-air style.

"When I took the job, Roone Arledge (president of ABC Sports) told me I could say anything I wanted to," said Russell.

"That never changed. I never got any flak at all from ABC" He paused a minute, then emitted the famous giggle that usually precedes a Russell bombshell

"I think the LEAGUE used to call 'em every Monday morning," he said delightedly. "But actually, my experience with ABC was quite good."

Then why did he step down?

"First of all," said Russell, "CBS has the pro basketball contract for next year. I'm kind of particular who I work for. Not that I have anything against CBS, I just don't know anything about 'em."

(They're the guys who have Walter Cronkite and new Scooby Doo movies, Bill.)

"Then, there was this opportunity in Seattle. They wanted me very badly." (You will notice, gentle readers, that at no time have I succumbed to temptation and quoted Russell as saying, "They made me an offer I couldn't refuse" He said it, but I will not repeat it)

Assuming that Russell is speaking straight out — and it is an easy assumption — ABC has one more laurel to its credit, to go with those three Emmys it won for sports coverage.

The plain fact is that NBA basketball over the last several years has become the pro sport most solidly identified with black players and audiences. This has been very cool with ABC, which with very little fanfare and no evidence of hypocrisy has tailored its NBA coverage to meet this reality.

The most obvious example is the use of Russell as color man (I can't help it, people, that's the term THEY use) along with a succession of white play-by-play guys such as Keith Jackson and Chris Schenkel But there are others.

abc's opening-credit montage for NBA games was set to the tune, not of a Sousaesque march, but a decidedly black soul exhortation to "take time out — get into the action" with the telecasts. And if you noticed, the heavy majority of players in the accompanying film cuts were black

A more uptight network would have played the telecasts along some mythological "balance" of color guidelines.

ABC and Arledge are to be commended for letting the emphasis fit the audience It will be interesting to see how the more cautious and corporate CBS sports department plays it next year Maybe Russell knew something.

Stockpile of Serials Watergated

New York (AP) — The Watergate hearings posed two problems for daytime TV. One was a small but growing backlog of game shows and soap operas taped in advance of their actual appearance on the tube.

That problem was two-thirds solved when the three networks agreed on a trial arrangement to rotate the live coverage.

The second problem still exists and is far more serious. Network staffs remain on red alert to keep in correct sequence the daily soap operas preempted by live TV coverage of the hearings

It would never do for a soap opera couple to end the day's saga with pledges of eternal love, only to reappear after three days of Watergate hearings embroiled in a fistfight over child custody.

When the hearings aren't on, the CBS, NBC and ABC networks are broadcasting a total of 31 soap operas and game shows each weekday — 15 soapers and 16 games per day

All but two of them are taped in advance — one day to two weeks for the soap operas, a week to a month for the game shows — and network officials said production of them still is proceeding apace.

With a few exceptions, each day the Watergate show is televised live, another batch of daytime shows backs up in the vaults, awaiting the days live coverage of the hearings isn't planned.

"We don't like to get too many shows ahead because there are all kinds of problems that can pop up when you do that," says Lin Bolen, NBC's director of daytime programs.

"In the serials," she says, referring to NBC's five soap operas, "you like to tie the story lines to current situations and times. For instance, you wouldn't want to run a summer piece at Christmastime"

ET Viewers Like Coverage

Public television stations are fielding a strong positive reaction to their complete coverage of the Watergate hearings

That's the assessment of Sally Beck, information specialist for the Nebraska Educational Television Network "More than 58,000 letters have been received by the Public Broadcasting System (PBS) expressing appreciation for the coverage in prime time evening hours," she said "That's a phenomenal response."

The National Public Affairs Center for Television (NPACT) is handling the coverage for PBS. George Page, director of PBS public information in Washington, said the response is "unprecedented" Ms Beck said she has received about 100 letters from Nebraskans who "overwhelmingly approve of the replay of the hearings on KUON and the other Nebraska ETV stations.

Solution of Today's Puzzle on Page 16

Washington First; Other Stamp Facts

George Washington, said to be first in the hearts of his countrymen, is also first on the stamps of the U.S. His likeness has appeared on more of our stamps than any other American President or statesman . . .

Women's Lib supporters are hailing a new stamp to be issued by Canada in October which will honor Nellie McClung, champion of feminine rights in the 1920s.

The stamps of Eire first appeared in 1922 — but were really British stamps with overprint.

Chagall Windows

Chagall's famed stained glass windows, in the Hadassah-Hebrew University Medical Center Synagogue in Jerusalem, are featured on a new series of stamps by Israel

The 12 windows represent the 12 Tribes of Israel, each measuring 11¼ feet by 8 feet. The individual designs tell not only the Biblical story but the part played by each tribe in Israel's national life. The name of each appears in Hebrew script and every one contains a Chagall "trademark" — a tiny farmhouse where the artist was born in Russia

Release of the first six of the dozen stamps was set for March 27, reports the Israel Philatelic Agency in America The tribes represented are Ruben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Zebulin and Issacher

Norse Honor Doctor

Two new stamps from Norway hail the centenary of the discovery of the leprosy bacteria by Dr Gerhard Henrik Armauer Hansen (1841-1922) of that country. Both designs shows Dr. Hansen at a microscope with a slide of the bacterium. Discovery was made in 1873 after he had devoted his life to this task.

Dome of the Rock

Tunisia has issued a single stamp honoring the Dome of the Rock in Jerusalem. Built over the rock from which Mohammed is said to have ascended to heaven, the mosque is a prime reason the city of Jerusalem remains the sacred site to three faiths. The dome once appeared on a stamp of the old British Protectorate of Palestine.

Your Horoscope

For Monday, June 4, 1973

GEMINI

Your birthday today: Purposeful change is your motto for the coming year. Competition this year inspires you to superior achievement. Today's natives are natural travelers who often select some technical subject for special study.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Use lively ideas promptly, even in haste, while you're in the rush of enthusiasm. Do no "favors" today.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Tho closer and more affectionate, associates can impede your work — find a middle course. There's a possibility of increasing earning power.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Intuition leads you thru a creative day. Humor sparkles. Be hospitable and make your friends comfortable.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Recent puzzles are resolved when more details are completed. Bargain hunting succeeds, for once.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Exert yourself to be seen and heard this extremely productive day. Ask for what you're sure is yours.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): More has been working in your favor than you have realized. Technical advice can be helpful, but do your own thinking.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Give others chance to function, altho you have to redo their errors later; everybody learns from the experiment. Home life has rewards.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Begin a new career activity. Forgive an awkward friend rather than lose him by criticism.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Open your week's adventure boldly, make new commitments. Technical or legal procedures go well. Use the evening for planning.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Extend your welcome spirit to those you like. Sentimental ventures are facilitated by circumstances beyond public view.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Be prepared to reach far and wide, travel, to get what you need Resistance develops late in the day.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Sharing means much more than letting others have part of your material prosperity. Encourage loved ones toward creativity.

'Tomorrow' Debut Will Be Delayed

network's studios in Burbank, Calif.

The idea for the show was developed by Mort Werner, NBC's senior vice president for program planning and one of the developers of the successful Today and Tonight shows

The delay in getting Tomorrow on the air was partly attributed to negotiations for rates on the telephone lines over which the show would be fed to NBC affiliates across the country

When it does appear, it'll mark the first time a network has regularly scheduled broadcasting past midnight (central time) on weekdays, although NBC has been starting a Midnight Special pop music show every Friday night since Feb. 3

Tomorrow will end only five hours before Today begins and could lead to even more network programming in the predawn hours on weekdays

Both Frills, Cost Cut In Rooms

(c) New York Times

New York — "The room cost me only $10 a night and I didn't have to tip bellhops since the motel does not have any," said Donald Ackerman, a computer technician from Long Island.

He had previously stayed at a budget motel in Dalton, Ga., with his wife and two small daughters.

"We got a good night's sleep and were not bothered by noisy conventioneers or barroom noise," he added. "Furthermore, the room was very clean and the television worked.

Budget motels, which feature single or double rooms at $5 to $10 nightly, are sprouting over the country.

Their secret is to offer travelers the essentials and omit the frills. At a typical budget motel, $6 to $8 a night will buy a single-occupancy room 25 per cent smaller but otherwise identical in appearance to a standard motel room, where the price may be $15 or more.

The budget motel's rooms are fully furnished, carpeted and air-conditioned. Some have phones in the rooms. Budget motels do not have luxurious lobbies, meeting rooms, or spacious grounds, and many do not have swimming pools or restaurants.

Budget-motel owners reason that these are added expenses that most people do not often use. Customers do not seem to miss the frills.

The budget motel goes after the same mix of business as the conventional motel: family vacationers and the traveling businessman and salesman.

Budget motels cost a lot less to build than the conventional motels, generally $7,000 to $8,000 a room including land and furnishings. This compares with $13,000 to $15,000 for a typical room in a Holiday Inn.

Most budget motels are in the southern and western sections of the country. Some are under construction in New York State, and they also operate in Pennsylvania and Virginia.

The budget motel industry began in 1962 when William Becker and Paul Greene decided that motels had moved away from their original function of providing no-frill, inexpensive overnight housing.

They then formed Motel 6, Inc., opening their first budget motel in Santa Barbara, Calif. By 1968, when the City Investing Co. acquired Motel 6 for about $12 million, it had 34 budget motels in operation.

Motel 6 has 123 motels currently in operation, with 40 under construction. Trade sources estimate that Motel 6, the leader in the budget motel field, accounts for about 7 per cent of the approximately 14,000 budget rooms.

Of 25 companies in the budget motel field most have appeared on the scene in the last few years. Other major companies include Days Inns of America, Inc., Scottish Inns of America, Chalet Suisse and the E-Cono Travel Corp.

'Help Box' on Highway

Concord, Mass. — Motorists in trouble on Interstate 495 in this area can summon assistance by using a new system of electronic call boxes. The "help boxes," completely self-contained and requiring no batteries or connecting wires, are situated at half-mile intervals along the roadside

Power to operate the ADT boxes is produced by pulling their operating handles The electrical charge thus generated powers a built-in FM transmitter activated by three buttons marked "Police," "Ambulance" and "Service."

A coded signal indicating the type of assistance requested, and the location of the box is immediately transmitted to a nearby police facility and the appropriate aid is dispatched

An average of 300 calls per week is expected to be received from stranded motorists during peak summer travel months Most of these aid requests will be for mechanical problems including flat tires and engine malfunctions

A similar system is in operation in northern Florida and one is planned for installation in southern Illinois this summer

MUSIC

Navy Keeps Time With Today's Music

By Holly Spence

"Anchors Aweigh" isn't the only tune Navy musicians play nowadays. A few of Hank Williams' country compositions are in order too.

And all of these country and western sounds are courtesy of Country Current, the newest offshoot of the U.S. Navy Band.

The five-member group is convinced that Country Current lets the people know that there's more to the Navy than swabbing a deck and six months at sea.

"We try to promote the 'new' Navy to get high school people to realize that it's now a more relaxed Navy," said Chief Musician and bass man Larry Watts.

The group, giving free concerts on a tour of the Midwest, is just part of the Navy music program which also includes a large dance band, a rock band and a concert band

Fourteen-year Navy man Watts said that even though country current's members are all active duty sailors, they do not travel in uniform.

"We perform in country and western outfits because we feel we can best express ourselves this way and we can look more like a country group," he said

Guitarist-leader musician 2C Larry Davidson said that the Navy realized that he and his companions do their best as musicians and hopes to appeal to other young people interested in diverse fields

"We can dwell on music, but there are over 70 vocational opportunities for advanced training in the Navy . one that fits just about everybody," noted Davidson

Country Current finds high school and college audiences prime targets. These are the people who are seeking a profession.

Musician 1C — Bob Kaufman, the fiddle player, was trained as a classical violinist while Musician 2C Bob Faylor played drums for the ceremonial band in Washington, D.C. The ceremonial band plays for such events as presidential inaugurations and state funerals.

Watts came into the Navy as a tuba major, went through the Navy School of Music and moved from the string bass to the electric guitar.

Musician 2C Dan Meyers also plays guitar.

These musicians will always be in the Navy music program based in Washington and "between tours we have our work cut out for us visiting schools in and around the D. C. area," Watts said.

Davidson, the son of an entertainer, said that the group does all types of country music, "mostly the up-tempo and fiery stuff." He added that some of the music doesn't even sound like country.

"We are trying to appeal mainly to young men and women and to do this, we try to reach them through what they like," he said "If they can associate with these things, it gives them a better outlook on the Navy as a whole."

Lt JG B L Worms of the Navy Recruiting office in Omaha said the Country Current tour is part of the all-volunteer force push in the military.

Worms commented that the Blue Angels air shows are to attract those interested in aviation and that the Navy is now working on trips for high school counselors to show them the opportunities available in the military for young people

"This is something to augment our local effort and it's even more important in the Midwest," he said "We ARE the Navy, and we don't have the ships like San Diego does "

Lost Art

Birmingham, England (UPI) — The painting of pub signs is such a lost art that John Smith's breweries have offered prizes of up to $250 and 11 gallons of beer to customers who design and paint their own

100 years ago this week — Old NEBRASKA

1873: A letter appearing in the Chicago Post told of the wonders of Lincoln and its growth in five years "Two peculiarities strike the stranger," said the writer, "One is that the mud roads are not muddy in Nebraska. The other is that newsboys run their beats on horseback, ride up to windows and hand the paper to the man expecting it. The lamplighter is also mounted and his horse serves as a ladder."

90 1883: John S. Gregory was the successful bidder for razing the old Capitol building. He was to pay the state $300 and have all the material, moving it away at his own expense.

The City Council divided the city into four wards, added some new territory and passed a seven-mill levy for school purposes.

80 1893: Buffalo Bill Cody was helping prepare for Nebraska Day at the World's Fair in Chicago.

Humane sociaites were making an effort to stop a cowboy race from Chadron to Chicago.

70 1903: Serious flood conditions existed in Nebraska. The Nemaha River flooded and the Blue was dangerously rising. In Lincoln, Salt Creek flooded and nearby the Platte was also rising.

60 1913: The Academy of Music at 11th and O was nearly completed and was to be occupied for the first time by an Episcopal Church ice cream festival.

Many fields of wheat around Lincoln had slightly yellowing heads of grain high enough to strike a man in the eye.

50 1923: A movement was launched in Lincoln looking to the submission of an amendment to the state constitution limiting two or three the number of elective state offices.

40 1933: Some 200 persons swarmed the steps of City Hall in protest of the unheeded demand to release two members of the Workers Unemployed Council who had been jailed on charged of picketing the county relict store. It was two hours before the delegation furled banners and dispersed.

The mercury climbed to 107 in Lincoln.

30 1943: Bishop Louis B. Kucera of the Lincoln Diocese announced that the Rev. Thomas M Kealy had been made a papal chamberlain with the title of monsignor.

Some Lincoln citizens complained to city authorities about sheep grazing in Pioneers Park. Complaints were over the destruction of prairie grass and some speculated that if the sheep remained "the whole park will be like a stockyards".

20 1953: Tornado-stricken Hebron received six modern murcury vapor lights from Lincoln and Nebraska neighbors A "Lights for Hebron Fund," sponsored by The Sunday Journal and Star and the Lincoln Chamber of Commerce had reached $2,729

Samuel C. Waugh, a Lincoln banker, was appointed by President Eisenhower and confirmed by the Senate, as assistant secretary of state.

10 1963: Gov. Frank Morrison went before the Legislature in a personal appeal, urging the lawmakers to push an economic development program, to enact a drivers education bill, and to establish an educational television network.

Col. C. J. Sanders retired as commander of the state patrol and was replaced by Capt. Dan Casey. Both men were among the original patrolmen of 1937 when the state patrol was organized

Last Week 1973: The Legislature adjourned its 90-day regular session after upholding several vetoes by Gov. J. J. Exon, including one that would have established state aid to education as a major policy. The senators earlier had adopted the governor's budget as he recommended it, in effect challenging him to make good on a promise of cutting taxes with reducing services. Then the Legislature ordered a reduction in state income taxes from the former 15% to 13% of the taxpayer's federal liability. Everyone agreed with the governor that it had been a "tough" controversial session.

An explosive charge, placed by an expert brought from Baltimore, had this effect on the tops of piers of the old Ak-Sar-Ben Bridge across the Missouri River between Omaha and Council Bluffs, Iowa The structural portion of the bridge had been dismantled before the piers were blown up on Jan 28, 1969, some time after the opening of the downtown Omaha Interstate Highway Bridge that parallels the route that had been served by the Ak-Sar-Ben Bridge Most of the debris from the piers was removed from the river bed before the job was completed There were six piers like these, arranged in two sets three

U.N. Visitor May Have Lunch With Delegates

By Joel Sleed
(c) Newhouse News Service

New York — In the heart of New York City there's a speck of international territory that annually attracts 1,500,000 visitors. It's the United Nations.

But did you know that when you visit the UN., you can hobnob with the delegates at luncheon in their own dining room? Or buy handicrafts from all over the world at prices which are often less than what you would pay at your local store — if you could get the item there? Or purchase exclusive U.N. Stamps prized by collectors throughout the globe?

Of course, as a visitor to the U.N. you'll also have an opportunity to see history in the making. All but a very few meetings of official U.N. bodies are public. Tickets are distributed free at the information desk in the lobby of the General Assembly Building, with most meetings getting underway at 10:30 a.m. and 3 p.m.

However, if you're taking the kids with you, and they're under 12, you're out of luck. No children under 12 are admitted to official meetings, nor may they enter the U.N. premises unless they are accompanied by an adult.

The best way a first-time visitor can see the U.N. is by taking a guided tour. Tours begin from the main lobby of the General Assembly Building about every 10 minutes, seven days a week, from 9.15 a.m. to 4.45 p.m. The tours last about an hour and include information on the aims, structure and activities of the U.N. as well as a description of the works of art and architectural features along the tour route. (You can also arrange a tour in a language other than English if you have foreign visitors with you. And if you're handicapped, wheelchairs will also be furnished if you make arrangements beforehand. Prices for the regularly scheduled tours are $2 for adults and 75 cents for children and students. Children under five-years-old are not admitted on tours.

If the walking has made you hungry, you can stop off for lunch at the delegate's dining room atop the Conference Building, overlooking the East River.

Visitors are admitted from 11:30 a.m. on a first come, first served basis Monday through Friday, as tables become available. The menu, which is interspiced with national dishes from member nations, is reasonably priced. By the way, suit jackets are required for men.

After lunch, how about a little shopping?

The U.N. gift center is probably a unique shop of its kind in the world. It's truly an international bazaar, with 131 member nations displaying works of art, handicraft, jewelry, scarves, etc. Prices range from 20 cents for a brass bracelet from India to $250 for original Eskimo stone carvings. There are also jade items for sale from the Peoples Republic of China. (The gift center was probably the first shop in the United States to have the Chinese jade on sale after the communist country was admitted to the U.N.)

Another unique U.N. shopping area is at the postal administration counter in the General Assembly concourse. Here, exclusive U.N. stamps which are prized by collectors all over the world, may be purchased for philatelic or mailing purposes.

In the United States, these United Nations stamps are valid for mailing only from U.N headquarters. You can send friends or relatives an inexpensive souvenir of your visit just by dropping them a postcard from the world body with a U.N. stamp on it.

If you're seeking information on the U N. the best person to get in touch with is Mrs. Madeline Mitchell, chief of the Public inquiries Unit. Mrs. Mitchell and her staff handle almost 100,000 questions a year, concerning everything from what world-shaking decisions were made, to how to arrange a tour to how many windows in the Secretariat Building. (The answer, by the way, is 5,400.)

So if you have any question about hours, tours, brochures, ect. write to Mrs. Madeline Mitchell, Public Inquiries Unit, Public Services, United Nations, N.Y. 10017

Visitors file through gate to U.N. General Assembly Bldg. Of New York tourist attractions only the Statue of Liberty (free) outdraws U.N.

New Works From Prize-Winning Authors

By Mary Somerville
Chief, Young People's Services,
Lincoln City Libraries

The stream of young people's books is flooding with treasures as award-winning authors create major new works. We are happy that these titles have been produced in time for the Lincoln City Libraries Summer Reading Program, and we expect them to be read and enjoyed for many years to come.

George Selden is best known for The Cricket in Times Square (Farrar, Straus & Giroux), a 1960 Newbery Honor Book. His latest work, The Genie of Sutton Place (Farrar, Straus & Giroux), rivals that earlier effort with a witty, madcap story of boy and genie.

Recently orphaned Tim Farr and his mongrel, Sam, must leave the happy atmosphere of Madame Sosostris' junk shop, where seances are held weekly, and live instead with Aunt Lucy, who is rich, rigid, and hates dogs.

When Aunt Lucy excommunicates Sam to the dog pound, Tim resorts to occult reading and then summons a genie from a museum carpet. The genie -- Abdullah, or Dooley for short -- proceeds to rescue Sam by turning mongrel into man. What follows is a potpourri of crazy magic.

Marilyn Sachs wowed children and adults alike with her 1968 Veronica Ganz (Doubleday) and its 1969 sequel, Peter and Veronica, (Doubleday). Now feisty Veronica is back, but she has become a grown-up woman dentist in The Truth About Mary Rose (Doubleday).

Young People's World

Partially set in Lincoln, this combined mystery and character study focuses on Veronica's dead sister, Mary Rose, who supposedly died a heroine in a hotel fire. Veronica's daughter is named for Mary Rose, and the girl sets out to discover all she can about her dead aunt.

She would like to worship her namesake as a saint, but various macabre details begin to infer that the first Mary Rose was far from perfect. Revelations about a family skeleton expose present-day personalities as well. At the end of the book, we see all current family members, not through a glass darkly, but face to face, their strengths and weaknesses exposed.

Madeleine L'Engle won the 1963 Newbery Medal for A Wrinkle in Time (Farrar, Straus & Giroux), a cross between fantasy and science fiction. A Wind in the Door (Farrar, Straus & Giroux) likewise describes interplanetary travel and mythical beings in the lives of the Murry family.

The precocious youngest child, Charles Wallace, is suffering from a futuristic disease called mitochondritis. An evil spirit in the universe is creating sickness in people, as well as holes or rips in galaxies.

Madeleine L'Engle thus updates the old conflict between good and evil by introducing some current astrophysics. She also echoes Teilhard de Chardin's mystical concepts of the evolution and ultimate unity of all life.

Charles' older sister, Meg, discovers that even cells are evolving and that plants can feel. She actually visits one of her brother's cells and finds that they are like sentient stars in the galaxy of his body.

Meg and her boy friend, Calvin, along with several other characters, face a series of tests to determine Charles Wallace's fate. The fate of the universe may also hang in the balance.

Blessings Aplenty — or Millstone?

The Land Beyond the River. By Jesse Stuart; McGraw-Hill.

In this saga of the Perkins family, Jesse Stuart reveals the loopholes and corruption of a welfare system.

Actually, it is the sad story of the family's move from Lower Bruin, Ky., an economically distressed area in Appalachia, to the "Promised Land" as tenant farmers near Agrillo, Ohio.

In Kentucky, the Perkinses lived in a two-room former schoolhouse. Lean-tos were added to accommodate their 11 children.

Gil and Sil, the parents, are faithful members of the Freewill Baptist Church, faithful to the Word — and "one thing was to marry and replenish the earth."

A do-gooder persuaded them that they were eligible for "commodities," which meant that they went to town once a week and carried home free groceries for the family.

An uncle and aunt move to Ohio and become substantial citizens. Then Uncle Dick persuades Gil and Sil to make the move.

At first, as tenant farmers of Josh Herbert, the Perkinses work hard and earn enough money to buy a few luxuries, including a radio. Herbert is especially happy with them because they are hard workers and tackle any task. Because of the children's help, his raspberry and strawberry crops are saved.

Then tragedy strikes. Gil, called Poppie by the storyteller, Pedike, is bitten by a copperhead. Unable to work and with a family that keeps increasing, he is persuaded by Uncle Dick to go on welfare.

For the Perkinses, the many food stamps and the larger house are almost their undoing. It all comes from the Welfare Dept., and there is so much money that Uncle Dick opens bank accounts for them in three different counties.

Uncle Dick has found the loopholes in the welfare system and has shoved the Perkinses through them. One wonders: Are there many welfare programs like this?

Search for Identity

Who Is Carla Hart? By Joanna Barnes; Arbor House.

A beautiful actress with just about everything life can offer — a loving husband, a lovely home, a booming career, an adoring public — finds herself without the one thing she needs in order to retain all the rest.

Carla Hart is looking for herself.

Her creator, Joanna Barnes, however, narrows Carla's search almost exclusively to the bedrooms of the men she knows — not, obviously, the most likely place to find one's inner self.

Portrayed as no dumb bunny, Miss hart would seem to be the first to realize she was on the wrong track with that game plan. Yet she never abandons it for a better one.

Her quest is an orgy of masochism in which she succeeds only in destroying the very self she is seeking.

Failure is predictable. But somehow it doesn't come off as tragic. If Carla were vapid and emptyheaded, perhaps it would be tragic. Were she as complex and confused as Marilyn Monroe, the late great blonde bombshell whose life ended a decade or so ago, it would be tragic.

But Carla Hart, as Miss Barnes portrays her, as quick-witted and incisive, penetratingly aware of herself and her relationships with others. She is not an object manipulated by others, but a woman pulling her own strings.

Joanna Barnes

Her tragedy, if there is one, lies in her being hooked by the line given out by her publicity agents. Billed to the world as the personification of womanliness, she senses that she is mostly sham, a mere shell of a woman.

All the rest is a matter of setting out to make that introspective perception an overt reality.

Perhaps, after all, that's all the Phi Beta Kappa from Smith College wanted to talk about. Perhaps she should be credited for an achievement in realism. No happy ending here, for a woman as set against herself as Carla Hart was could hardly be expected to "find herself."

But one is inclined to think that Miss Barnes took the easy way out, establishing a problem and leaving it unsolved.

Legend in Her Time

Dorothy Thompson. By Marion K. Sanders; Houghton Mifflin.

Subtitled A Legend in Her Time, this biography of Dorothy Thompson is one of the most revealing pieces ever written about her.

Young women who were hopeful of becoming journalists during the 1930s looked upon Miss Thompson as the epitome of success in the field. She was a foreign correspondent, a columnist, a lecturer.

The daughter of a Methodist minister, Dorothy was a willful child who adored her father. She had a very happy early childhood; every birthday and every holiday were celebrated. So, too, were such days when any of the children brought home a straight-A report card.

Dorothy's mother, for whom Dorothy "bargained with God she would be good forever if He would spare her mother," died when the future journalist was 8.

Until the Rev. Peter Thompson remarried in 1903, Aunt Lizzie Hill, his widowed sister, helped the household. Dorothy, who aspired to worldly pleasures, described her stepmother as a dour woman, "a self-pitying hypochondriac bravely but futilely struggling against an allergy to children."

At 14, Dorothy was sent to Chicago to live with an aunt in order to prevent conflict between the budding author and her stepmother.

Although she vaguely hoped to become a writer, she did not know how to go about it and earn a living. However, she graduated cum laude from Syracuse, where she also was active in the women's rights movement.

After graduation, she took a job at suffrage headquarters in Buffalo, N.Y., but when the 19th Amendment was ratified, her job disappeared. She found none with newspapers and finally went to work as a publicist for a Bible publisher. Her next job was with a project called Social Unit, and she moved to New York to become national publicity director.

At 25, Dorothy became romantically entangled with a married man and put behind her Methodist upbringing. When the romance terminated, she grew despondent.

Dorothy's good friend Barbara De Porte felt that Dorothy must get away, so the two scraped together some money, and Dorothy secured a vague commitment from two newspapers to use her contributions from Europe.

Thus began the career of Dorothy Thompson, who became one of the best-known foreign correspondents of her time.

Of her three marriages, the one to Sinclair Lewis was both the happiest and the saddest.

The author of this entrancing biography had access to Dorothy's unpublished diaries and journals, and she has done a great job in using them to tell the story of a well-known figure. The illustrations, too, are excellent.

Q. If Richard Nixon knew nothing about the Watergate crimes and the political sabotage of his subordinates, why didn't he?—R.S., Washington, D.C.
A. If he knew nothing because of untrustworthy, incompetent subordinates who lied to him or declined to tell him all, then he is guilty of poor judgment—the same accusation leveled against Sen. George McGovern when he chose Sen. Tom Eagleton of Missouri as his running mate in the 1972 Presidential race.

Q. Steve King, the former FBI agent who, according to Martha Mitchell, manhandled her in Newport, Calif., last summer—what's happened to the poor guy?—B. T., Baltimore, Md.
A. King has gone to work for Earl Butz, Secretary of Agriculture.

Q. Is it true that Dean Martin's wedding to Cathy Hawn cost him $300,000?—Renee Hershkowitz, Philadelphia, Pa.
A. About half that sum, including a $50,000 wedding ring.

AT THE RECEPTION: DEAN MARTIN WITH BRIDE CATHY HAWN

Q. Can you tell me why WBIR-TV, a local station here, refused to show Ingmar Bergman's play, The Lie*?—D.B., Knoxville, Tenn.*
A. Of the 197 stations affiliated with the CBS-TV network, three declined to carry The Lie in which an actor and actress appeared partly nude in a bedroom scene. The three are WBIR-TV in Knoxville, KOTV in Tulsa, Okla., and WCAX-TV in Burlington, Vt.

LOU ADLER AND BRITT EKLAND

Q. Britt Ekland, the Swedish actress who was once married to actor Peter Sellers—I understand she is pregnant by Lou Adler, a Hollywood record producer. When is the baby due?—Amy L., Hollywood, Calif.
A. Any minute—if the baby hasn't already arrived.

Q. Elliot Richardson, the newly appointed Attorney General and former Secretary of Defense who closed so many military and naval installations in Massachusetts—isn't he politically a dead duck in this state? —Pat Doyle, Brockton, Mass.
A. Richardson once had dreams of running for the U.S. Senate or the Governorship of Massachusetts, now probably thinks he might make it as the Republican Vice Presidential nominee in 1976. Hope springs eternal in the breasts of all politicians, and Richardson is one of the most hopefully ambitious of them all.

Q. I have heard rumors that during the course of the Pentagon Papers trial, the judge in charge of the case, Matt Byrne, had his telephone bugged. Can you confirm?—P. W., Pasadena, Calif.
A. No one knows for sure. At one point Byrne joking suggested to friends that it might well be true.

Q. Is it true that Sammy Davis Jr. owns the most expensive auto in Hollywood?—Karen Bart, Toluca Lake, Calif.
A. One of the most expensive. He paid $37,000 for a Stutz Bearcat.

Q. In retrospect why were Bob Haldeman and John Ehrlichman so widely disliked by the White House press corps?—L. Glazer, New York, N.Y.
A. Arrogance, real or fancied.

Q. Is it a fact that actress Mia Farrow can have no more children of her own, which is why she is adopting some?—Lee Kaiser, Miami Beach, Fla.
A. Mia Farrow, 28, is capable of having more children if she so desires. She and her conductor-composer husband, Andre Previn, however, recently adopted a 3-months-old Vietnamese orphan girl named Kym Lark. The infant arrived from Saigon under the care of Terre des Hommes, a private French organization concerned with the adoption of Vietnamese and Korean orphans. The Previns have a pair of boy twins, Sascha and Matthew.

THE PREVINS: MIA FARROW AND ANDRE WITH KYM LARK AND THE TWINS

Q. Have they found an actress to play Eleanor Roosevelt in the TV version of her life?—Karl Marsh, Hempstead, N.Y.
A. Yes, Rosalind Russell, 62, has met the approval of the Roosevelt family to star in the Eleanor Roosevelt teleplay.

Is Astrology a $100 Million Hoax?

by Mort Weisinger

Four top stars in the world of astrology

ZOLAR

MAURICE WOODRUFF

CARROLL RIGHTER

A few weeks before the historic orbiting of the moon by the Apollo 8 crew, the Federation of British Astrologers made a dire prophecy: "The probability of serious personality changes among the three astronauts during this voyage is very high," they announced. "Jupiter and Uranus are in conjunction for the first time in 14 years, and the influences of these planets are very strong."

Undaunted, NASA officials ignored the warning. The mission went off exactly as programmed and the spacemen splashed down safely and as sound as ever.

Obviously, our space agency takes little stock in astrology. But to countless believers, the 6000-year-old concept that the celestial spheres affect human lives and global events is as unshakable as a witch doctor's faith in his voodoo spells.

Millions of believers

In the U.S. alone, an estimated 10 million people are convinced their future is written in the stars. And an army of these believers regularly consults the nation's 200,000 professional and amateur astrologers.

All this is literally manna from heaven for the astrology merchandisers. Millions are spent on things like forecast wheels, zodiac charts, astrology books, magazines and paperbacks ranging in title from How to Play the Horses Horoscopically to Cooking by Astrology. Bulls, rams and goats gallop over cravats and cufflinks, plateware and waterbeds.

The astrology craze knows no boundaries. In Monaco, Princess Grace hosted a Scorpio Ball, with guests appearing costumed as Madame Curie, Marie Antoinette and other Scorpios of history. In West Germany, the magazine Der Spiegel commissioned a high-priced priest of astrology to chart the Jackie and Ari Onassis horoscopes. In France, President Georges Pompidou says he follows the daily horoscope broadcasts of Madame Soleil, the country's leading astrologer.

'What's your sign?'

Today, at a cocktail party, you are as likely to be asked your sign as your name. Jackie Gleason, gung-ho on the subject, refuses to fly ever since he got a reading that danger would stalk him in the air. Resort managers lure spouse-hunting singles by seating couples with compatible signs around the same dining table.

What is the principle behind astrology? How is it supposed to work?

Astrologers hold that the solar system influences human affairs. The early practitioners believed that the location of the sun, moon, planets and stars at the moment a child was born had a direct impact on his character, and charting their position at any time after his birth, would reveal his destiny.

Modern astrologers have jazzed up this explanation. They hold that at the moment of birth the infant's genes are struck by radiations from the stars and planets. Exposure to the mix of these rays triggers various influences on the infant. These forces will alter his genes biochemically and program his personality.

They further assert that by analyzing the subject's birth chart, and correlating it with classic histories in their annals, they can read his traits, emotions, weaknesses, and guide him in matters of health and wealth, love and marriage, success and failure, life and death.

Contend the astrologers: "Our art is based on a wedding of astronomy, physics, mathematics, biology and psychology."

But the scientific community says that equating astrology with the legitimate sciences is like comparing alchemy with chemistry or faith-healing with medicine. The few predictions which come true are attributed to coincidence.

Says Dr. Harold Spencer Jones, distinguished HM Astronomer of the Royal Observatory in Greenwich, England: "I have had shoals of letters, many of them tragic, telling how the belief in it [astrology] has ruined homes which until one of the partners took it up were very happy ones. I have never yet seen any argument put forward in support of astrology which would bear the least scientific investigation."

Psychological harm

Dr. Charles Wahl, professor of psychosomatic medicine at UCLA's Neuropsychiatric Institute, puts it even more harshly: "I've seen astrology and the reliance on horoscopes do decided psychological harm, and my view corresponds with almost all scientifically educated persons, in that astrology is a system of belief maintained without any shred of scientific proof and, like all species of irrationality, it does, in the long run, incredible harm. It also gives charlatans an enormous advantage in preying on the minds of the easily influenced."

Amram Scheinfeld, a leading geneticist who lectures at Yale, Cornell and Columbia, and who is also the author of You and Heredity, torpedoes astrology's basic cornerstone with this observation: "Their position that cosmic forces affect an infant's personality at the moment of birth is genetically untenable," he told me. "For this theory to be valid, the influence on the genes would have to occur at the moment of the child's conception, not at his birth. So, even if you accept their charade of cosmic cause and natal effect, all their charts are plotted nine months too late."

An Aries or a Pisces?

Professor Owen S. Rachleff, who teaches a course at New York University that debunks the occult arts, invariably convinces his students that astrology is snake oil because it still clings to the ancient belief which erroneously places the earth, not the sun, at the center of the solar system, and which ignores precession, or the regular shifting of the earth's equinoxes. It is precession which has caused each sun sign to fall back about 30 days in the last 2000 years, so that everyone who thinks he's an Aries is really a Pisces, and a Pisces is really an Aquarius, etc.

But enough of this astrologer-scientist squabbling. Let us zero in on the oracles themselves. How did they learn their profession? What are their qualifications?

The credentials of the big-leaguers range from the incredible to the inane. Sybil Leek claims to be a witch. Jeane Dixon is on record that she derived her powers from a crystal ball given to her as a child by an old Gypsy. Linda Goodman insists she has excellent basic training for her profession: "In a former incarnation, I was an astrologer." The Great Zolar is an ex-men's wear salesman who learned his trade from a boardwalk star-gazer who hawked $1 horoscopes in Atlantic City, N.J.

When Zsa Zsa Gabor and George Sanders wed, Carroll Righter predicted a long, happy union. Righter couldn't have been wronger.

Astrologer Righter also forecast wedded bliss for Tyrone Power and Linda Christian. Married in 1949, they divorced six years later.

Leading French seeress Madame Soleil gives astrological counsel to actor Alain Delon. French President Pompidou says he, too, follows her predictions.

Famed Carroll Righter, who calls himself "The Gregarious Aquarius," is an ex-lawyer. Although his clients include Marlene Dietrich, Peter Lawford, Robert Cummings, Susan Hayward and other Hollywood luminaries, he did not warn any of them to evacuate California before the severe earthquake there a few years ago. Nor were his planetary clocks ticking in synch for Zsa Zsa Gabor and George Sanders and Linda Christian and Tyrone Power when he advised both couples the time was propitious for a happy marriage. Each pair split.

In his book, The Psychic World of California, author David St. Clair crowns Doris Chase Doane as the "Queen" of the coast's astrologers. "Her books are read by thousands, her charts are done for some of the state's top actors and politicians."

The pull of a full moon

Mrs. Doane, who is also president of Professional Astrologers, Inc., is positive there is a relationship between the heavens and the earth. "Look at how the moon affects the tides," she says. "Ask any policeman about the marked increase in murders and rapes during a full moon."

I took her advice and checked with New York City's Police Department. "Criminals shun well-lit areas," a high official told me. "If anything, a full moon is a deterrent to their activities."

In ancient times the soothsayer who misread his monarch's stars died by the executioner's sword. If heads were to roll today for false prophecies, one notable casualty would be seeress-psychic-astrologer Jeane Dixon. She predicted that the Russians would be the first to land on the moon; that Red China would start World War III in 1958; that Nixon would defeat Kennedy in 1960; and that Senator McGovern would not be a Presidential candidate in 1972.

Another victim would be Carl P. Tobey, also a superstar in the astrology world's galaxy. He rose to the top when he forecast the assassination of President Kennedy. But he also predicted Ronald Reagan would be the Republican Presidential candidate in 1968 and that the Vietnam war would end on Dec. 26, 1968, "give or take a few days."

True believers however, remember only when their astrologers were right. "The predictions of astrologers are usually so vague that they cannot be confirmed or disproved properly. Failures are easily overlooked, while an occasional chance hit is dramatic enough to maintain the behavior of the devotee in considerable strength," observes the eminent psychologist B. F. Skinner, in his book, Science and Human Behavior.

Maurice Woodruff, perhaps the grand guru of astrology, declares he is a clairvoyant and has extrasensory perception. His astrology books have sold over 50
